Nixon offers Viet trip

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard M. Nixon offered Sunday to travel to Saigon or Paris before inauguration day to move the Vietnam peace talks off dead center if he is elected president Tuesday—and if President Johnson asks him to make the trip.

"I stand with the President in his efforts to get the Paris talks off dead center," the Republican presidential candidate said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

"I want to make it very clear that if I am elected President I will be willing to cooperate with the President in any way that he and the secretary of the state would deem helpful," Nixon said.

"If he would, for example, considered it helpful for me to go to Paris or go to Saigon in order to get negotiations off dead center I would be glad to go."

He said he didn't suggest the trip "as a grandstand stunt," and added "I don't know that it would be helpful."

But he suggested that "President Johnson and president elect Nixon could knock out the idea that Hanoi is going to gain from the negotiating table what they cannot gain from the battlefield."

Nixon said, "I think we ought to go ahead with the Paris talks," now hit by the Saigon government's reluctance to send a delegation to the bargaining table.

Johnson, he said, would not have ordered a bombardment halt of North Vietnam "if he expected the backlash from Saigon."

He said "the impression I had" from telephone conversation with the President was that South Vietnam "was willing to sit at the conference table. I think President Johnson thoroughly expected the Saigon government would attend."

Nixon said he did not agree with the assessment of a key aide, California Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, that the bombing halt was politically motivated to help Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee, to win the election.

"He completely disagrees with my appraisal," said Nixon, who backs the bombing halt.

"The three presidential candidates cannot be held responsible for what their campaign aides say in the last 48 hours before the election," Nixon said.

"We may not agree with what our aides said but there is no question they will answer questions when they are put to them by the press at this point," he said.

Nixon's appearance—his second on a nationwide news panel show the past seven days—was his only activity of the day. Afterward, he rested in his hotel room and prepared for a four-hour television Monday night in which he will answer telephone questions from all over the country.

That marathon effort will wind up his campaign.

Nixon covered a wide range of domestic issues as he was questioned by the panel and gave, for the first time, an estimate of what all of his proposed domestic programs would cost.

He estimated it at $10.8 billion a year and said it was far less than Humphrey would spend.

HHH: Saigon will talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Sunday the South Vietnamese government may have "some problems with its constituency" over the bombing halt in the North. But he added he thinks Saigon ultimately will participate in the Paris peace talks.

"I think we must depend on the good sense of the government of South Vietnam to attend and participate," the Democratic presidential candidate said.

"After all, the American people have paid a very heavy price in men and material and many other ways for the defense of South Vietnam, and I think it's fair to expect that government will respond to the sacrifices that we've made, and will respond to what is an honorable effort to bring about a cessation of hostilities," he said.

Humphrey appeared along with his running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, on a special ABC "Issues and Answers" television-radio program.

"I think we're going to get the plurality" in Tuesday's election, Humphrey said.

He said that while he believes in allowing the popular vote to decide the presidency, he feels reform of the Electoral College system should come through constitutional amendment, and not in the form of a pledge such as Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon has sought from him.

Nixon has challenged Humphrey to join with him in a declaration that the candidate with the largest popular vote should become president if no one wins the required 270 electoral votes. He has not spelled out the mechanics for doing this but presumably it would be by persuading the members of the electoral college to accept this idea.

Humphrey said he and Muskie are proud of the way they have campaigned. "We don't go to those sanctified, deodorized audiences, we go to the people."

"We've had to put an army into combat without training," Humphrey said of his campaign team.

Muskie said he feels the timing of the Democratic National Convention at the end of August was "awfully late," and hampered the ticket's drive to unify the party.

U.S. wages massive air, naval offensive in south

Ceasefire U.S. aim in talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to try to negotiate a ceasefire in the war in South Vietnam only as a first step in a package deal for withdrawal of all foreign troops from the country.

Such issues are due to come up this week in the expanded second phase of the Paris peace talks which the U.S. has agreed on with North Vietnam and for which President Johnson halted the bombing of the North on Friday.

The start of the expanded negotiations has been threatened with indefinite delay by South Vietnamese demands for an agreement from Hanoi for direct talks between the Saigon and Hanoi regimes.

U.S. officials privately take the position that the demands voiced by President Nguyen Van Thieu in a speech to the National Assembly in Saigon will not wreck the projected peace discussions, however. They appear to feel sure that, as Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a news conference Friday, South Vietnam will join the talks sooner or later.

Planning of U.S. policy for the next phase is therefore going ahead even though Thieu announced that his government would not participate in the meeting scheduled in Paris next Wednesday. He did not project his apparent boycott beyond that, leaving the future obscure.

President Johnson spoke in his bombing-halt broadcast announcement Thursday night as though attendance of both the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong's National Liberation Front representatives was all set.

Other officials at that time said privately that they were not quite sure how the first meeting would work out.

Discussion on some peace-making issues apparently could go forward even if representatives of the Saigon government boycotted the talks indefinitely.

The United States has insisted only that it will not discuss unilaterally issues in which the interests of South Vietnam are directly involved—as distinguished from issues in which the United States and North Vietnam are primarily concerned.

The troop withdrawal problem is evidently considered by Washington to be a matter of primary concern.

On the other hand political questions such as the status of the National Liberation Front and the form of South Vietnam's government, long-range security guarantees and other elements of a peace settlement are viewed as of direct and vital concern to South Vietnam.

Talk about a ceasefire has been almost as persistent over the last three years as talk about the halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

Wallace's running mate, retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, said meanwhile he is pessimistic about the prospects of a negotiated settlement in Vietnam resulting from the bombing halt and that "it looks like another stalling" by the North Vietnamese "to allow them to recover from their losses in the south."

Wallace and the former Air Force chief of staff appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers" television show after Humphrey and his Democratic vice presidential candidate, Sen. Edmund Muskie, had been interviewed on the same program.

The former Alabama governor expressed confidence that the election will be settled Tuesday and that he will carry enough states to get the required 270 electoral votes.

But if no one gets a majority, he said he feels certain the election will "be settled in the Electoral College and never go to the House."

Woman heads NLF delegation LBJ urges voters to elect Humphrey

PARIS (AP) — A 41-year-old woman revolutionary, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, will head the National Liberation Front's delegation at the expanded Paris peace talks, a member of the NLF central committee said Sunday.

Flying from Vietnam via Moscow, she is due to arrive in Paris at 11 a.m. Monday with five other members of an advance group of the NLF, the political arm of the Viet Cong.

They are to "take part in the preparatory meeting of the conference for a solution of the Vietnam problem," it was announced by the NLF information office recently opened in Paris.

A spokesman said the group "will be present" at the first meeting of the expanded talks, provisionally set for next Wednesday.

Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation, said Saturday the United States had agreed the National Liberation Front and the Saigon government should join the talks with independent delegations, each having "the right to speak for themselves."

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam said he did not intend to send a delegation because his government could never negotiate with the NLF as a separate entity.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told his Washington news conference Friday the United States does not recognize the NLF "as some separate entity." But he went on to say the conference "should get to the substance of making peace" rather than waste time debating such procedural points.

The American and North Vietnamese delegations were expected to meet privately prior to the formal session Wednesday.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson invoked Sunday night the words of presidents past to declare it his duty to commend a successor to the American people—and said Hubert H. Humphrey has earned their faith.

And in what might have been the last broadcast political speech of the campaign for Johnson, the President said:

"The touchstone of greatness, for man or for nation, is faith."

The President's speech was taped in advance at the White House for broadcast Sunday night over NBC. It was a paid political broadcast, sponsored

Funeral sparks uproar

ATHENS (AP) — Former Premier George Papandreu was buried Sunday and his funeral flared into the biggest demonstrations of protest against the Greek regime since it seized power 18 months ago.

More than 300,000 Greeks lined the mile-long funeral route that rang with cries of "Papandreu," "Down with the Junta," and "We want freedom."

Never since the junta of army officers seized power in a coup d'etat on April 21, 1967, had there been such a massive and open show of defiance.

Crowds crashed through cordons along the way and scuffled with police to follow the hearse. Though all police and army units in and around the national capital were on alert for trouble, they were obviously under orders to restrain themselves and avoid violence.

Fighting guerrillas first goal

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Command is concentrating now on massive air and naval offenses to smash movements of the enemy in South Vietnam, newly exhorted by Ho Chi Minh to fight on to complete victory.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams was reported preparing Sunday to put heavy new pressures on the Communist Command all across the South in the wake of President Johnson's order halting American bombing and shelling of North Vietnam.

Sources in the know said the four-star commander issued word that there will be no scale-down in American military operations in South Vietnam while envoys dicker in the expanded Paris peace talks. Abrams left the clear implication that ousting of North Vietnamese divisions and grinding down the local guerrillas are primary aims.

"There's going to be relentless, continuing pressure on all fronts," one source said. "This includes the big battalion war, pacification and elimination of enemy infrastructure."

Another remarked: "If you don't put heavy pressure on them, you'll give the enemy the countryside."

A U.S. Navy spokesman revealed that an allied riverboat campaign aimed at strangling enemy supply lines from avowedly neutral Cambodia has been under way in the Mekong Delta since Oct. 18.

Attacks in the first phase of this campaign, called Operation Sea Lords, were reported to have smashed 359 Viet Cong sampans and wrecked 411 trenches and other enemy fortifications. The spokesman said the maritime drive was not announced earlier for security reasons.

Other American officials said U.S. Marine, Air Force and Navy planes have stepped up attacks over eastern Laos, pounding North Vietnamese troops and supply columns moving down the Ho Chi Minh trail.

U.S. intelligence sources say there are now about 120,000 to 130,000 main force enemy troops in South Vietnam or along the border in Cambodia and Laos. About 75 per cent of these are reported to be North Vietnamese army regulars.

Police arrest eight in riot

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Eight Negroes, including three adults, have been charged with inciting to riot following a melee Saturday at a football game at racially tense McCaskey High School.

The arrests came just before the half of a game between McCaskey and Steelton-Highspire. Police said eight policemen were injured as they tried to arrest a Negro youth. They said a group of Negroes engulfed them while they were making the arrest.

'68 campaign tabs may reach $200 million

By DONALD R. LARABEE
Record Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Whatever else may be said of the 1968 election campaign, it is undoubtedly going to set a spending record and leave a lot of candidates deeply in debt.

Estimates range all the way from $35 to $50 million as the cost of the presidential campaign this year and between $100 and $200 million for all campaigns—state, local and national. This will exceed the 1964 total, insofar as it is known, by $20 to $30 million—but even the experts are only guessing.

Everyone accepts the fact that campaign costs are going sky-high, largely because of fabulous television charges, but estimates vary greatly on the exact tab. There is still no central source for determining precisely how much is being spent, where it is coming from and where it is going. The figures quoted here are conservative and based on barebones reports filed with Congress under the Corrupt Practices Act which is full of loopholes.

The Federal Communications Commission's records provide some insight into the outlay for political advertising. The FCC says a total of $32 million was spent on television and radio spots for both primaries and general elections two years ago. This, of course, was not a presidential year and did not involve buying time for nationwide programs.

It has been reported that New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller spent $4 million earlier this year on radio-TV and full-page newspaper ads in hopes of getting the Republican nomination. Richard Nixon is supposed to have budgeted $10 million for television since the convention. And Democrats have been trying to match it—although they now say they can't.

The current campaign has featured hundreds of short film clips on television which can cost as much as $55,000 per minute on a national network at prime evening time. A 60-second spot on a station in a city the size of Boston during the evening can cost $1,700 for the time alone.

Congressional experts say that a man needs at least $5 million to get his Party's nomination for President, probably $1,000,000 in any fair-sized state to become involved in a Senate race.

The money to finance these campaigns comes in dribbles from the average voter. Indeed, a Gallup poll some months ago indicated that only 12 per cent of the public gives to a Party or a candidate.

The unfortunate fact is that a man who wants to be a public servant either must be personally wealthy or be able to attract contributions from persons, corporations, labor unions or other groups which may be around to collect at a later time. The fear grows that men and women of limited means will refrain from running for public office.

The reports filed with Congress provide an impractical guide to what is collected or spent. For one thing, they do not cover the primaries, do not reveal what was handled by special political committees working within a state nor what expenditures were made for local offices. The Corrupt Practices Act is wide open to misinterpretations, if not mis-use.

It has become more the rule than the exception for members of Congress to report that they had "no contributions, no expenditures." The lawmakers say the funds are handled by committees which are exempt from filing a Federal report.

Congress periodically tries to make reporting of campaign spending more honest—but then stops short of enacting any changes in the law. It also has made half-hearted stabs at public financing of campaigns in the past two years but hasn't been convinced that the proposed systems would work.

For instance, in 1966, Congress put through a law permitting taxpayers to check a box on their tax forms if they wish to allot one dollar of taxes to presidential campaigns. Proceeds were to have been divided equally among the major Parties. The next year, it repealed this action and the Senate Finance Committee proposed a multi-million dollar subsidy plan to cover campaigns for both President and the U.S. Senate from the Treasury.

Under this proposal, which never got off the Senate calendar, a candidate could choose whether to use the public money or continue to rely on private financing. A Senate candidate would have been bankrolled by the taxpayers for anywhere from $100,000 to $1.5 million, depending upon the state in which he was running.

Congress has vacillated on the issue for 60 years since Teddy Roosevelt first suggested a law to subsidize campaigns. Barring a major scandal involving campaign funds this year, there is little reason to expect that Congress will take a serious look at the high cost of running for public office.

Shading on map shows area in northern Italy ravaged by torrential rains.

Storms leave scores dead in North Italy

ROME (AP) — A devastating blast of storms spread disaster across northern Italy this weekend and by Sunday night 72 persons were reported dead and scores injured.

As rescuers struggled to get into the heart of the disaster area a mountainous section north of Biella, one of Italy's textile centers—new rains began.

This roused fear of even worse flooding and possible dam collapses.

Dozens of streams swollen by two days of torrential rains swept over their banks Saturday night, destroying houses, ruining roads and triggering landslides which smothered mountaineers north of Biella in mud.

The Biella zone is about 36 miles north of Italy's automobile manufacturing center of Turin.

It was the worst blast of deadly weather to hit Italy since the floods which blanketed the country from Florence to Venice exactly two years ago this month.

Police helicopters joined rescue efforts in the Valle Mosso area, north of Biella, where 64 persons were reported to have perished.

Premier Giovanni Leone rushed to the disaster scene for an inspection tour.

Italy's largest lake, Lago Maggiore, surged over its shores and flooded lakeside homes.

All communications to the Ossola Valley, at the foothills of the Alps, were cut off as military helicopters began ferrying refugees to Turin and other centers. A pilot reported seeing the valley entirely flooded, with only the roofs of houses or cars in sight.

The combination of hurricane-force winds, torrential rains, cresting streams and landslides gouged a path of death and destruction from the Riviera across the Alps to Venice. Rain and winds also pounded central Italy to the Bay of Naples.

In the historic center of Venice, storm winds whipped the lagoon four feet above normal sea level and sent waters pouring over the tops of canal embankments into streets, squares and buildings.

The bad weather began Friday and built up steadily through Saturday. Late Saturday night it peaked with the destructive force of a hurricane.

Water, winds and mud wiped out roads, tore away rail lines, collapsed bridges and snarled communications and traffic as far south as Rome.

Besides flooding by streams, the major rivers of north Italy, the Tagliamento, the Adige and the Po, were on the rise. Abnormally high sea tides from Trieste down past Venice lashed the shores of the northern Adriatic.

Reports from the Biella area gave a picture of chaos.

Monroe mother cited for service in Ethiopia

TOBYHANNA — A Tobyhanna woman has been cited for volunteer service work in Ethiopia.

She is Mrs. Patrick Shank, wife of a sergeant first class assigned to the U. S. Army Memorial Reserve Center, near Tobyhanna Army Depot.

Mrs. Shank received the Patriotic Civilian Service Award from Brig. Gen. James H. Keller, deputy commander, U. S. Army Security Agency.

Previously, she earned a letter of appreciation from John Sencia, Red Cross field director, who described her as "probably the most outstanding volunteer I have had the opportunity to work with since my arrival in Asmara."

Besides her work with the Red Cross, Mrs. Shank also lent her services to a health clinic and orphanage.

"I felt obligated to help others," she explains modestly. "because we were able to hire a full-time Ethiopian maid for the ridiculously low wage of $18 a month. This gave me nothing but time on my hands."

The Shanks have three children: Arline, 15; Kathleen, 13, and Patricia, nine.

Two injured in accident

FERN RIDGE — Two men were injured Sunday afternoon in a two-car crash on Rt. 940, about three miles west of Blackslee.

Taken to General Hospital of Monroe County by Lake Harmony Ambulance were Leonard Clazuro and Nicholas Perfetti, both of Philadelphia. They were treated and released.

According to State Police from Fern Ridge, Clazuro was attempting to make a right turn off Rt. 940 when he skidded on the wet highway and collided with the rear of the Perfetti car.

Police estimate damage as $500 to the Clazuro car and $300 to the Perfetti vehicle.

Community war memorial proposed

War hero honored in death

By FRED WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter
KRESGEVILLE — "Chip" and "Whitey" were friends.

It was the same kind of growing, personal relationship that brothers would share and the meaning of being "buddies" intensified itself between them through the indifferent impact of the Vietnam war.

David "Whitey" Bartholomew, Kresgeville youth of 20 years was killed June 19. His friend, Levi "Chip" Borger, also of Kresgeville remains in active service.

Borger wrote to Bartholomew's mother, Mrs. Richard Strausberger, telling of the kind of intimate thoughts two war buddies eventually get around to talking about.

Strived for the best
Borger remembers, "Chip, everything I ever attempted to do, I always wanted to be the best or I didn't bother with it at all. If I got home from here, I'll know I did my best and be a man. And, well, if not, I know I'll die a man."

"We promised to tell how it happened," Borger said, in the event of either's death and he continued, "The VC were only 25 meters away when the men landed in a hot LZ. They opened as soon as the men were getting off the helicopters. The men had no cover, not a chance. David's whole platoon was wiped out, there were 12 killed and the rest wounded."

Bartholomew was honored posthumously for his heroism of June 19. Official records accounted the event as follows: "...while serving with Co. 'C', 1st Battalion, 27th Infantry on a combat operation against a numerically superior enemy force in Binh Dinh Province, RVN. As helicopters touched down and troops unloaded into an enemy infested area, the entire left flank of the friendly forces came under intense enemy fire."

Helping comrade
"PFC Bartholomew immediately returned the enemy fire while moving, with complete disregard for his own safety. When he heard a cry for help he fearlessly proceeded to crawl to the wounded man, ignoring the devastating fire. Bartholomew was pulling the wounded man to a location in the rear when he was seriously wounded, which eventually proved fatal. Despite his wound, he persisted in his struggle to return his fellow comrade to the rear."

Bartholomew's unit was part of the 25th Infantry Division which since June 13 had prepared for a major offensive in the area. Borger was with Co. "B", 1st Bn. 27th Inf.

Bartholomew also had sustained injury on May 28 from wounds received in action against hostile forces near Cu Chi, headquarters of the "Wolfhound" 25th Div. 15 miles north of Saigon.

Graduating from Pleasant Valley High School in June 1966, Bartholomew was assigned to Vietnam March 26 after completing advanced training at Ft. Polk. He was drafted Oct. 11, 1967.

Posthumous awards
Posthumous honors were recently presented by Lt. Richard J. Tokar, of Tobyhanna Army Depot: two awards of the Bronze Star Medal for heroism, one with oak leaf cluster, two awards of the Purple Heart and Good Conduct Medal.

The Bronze Star was given for "outstandingly meritorious service in connection with military operations against hostile forces from 26 March to 19 June 1968."

A personal letter from Major General F.K. Meeraus, commanding officer, 25th Inf. Div., said "He was a truly fine outstanding soldier, whose duty, spirit and devotion to his country made him a valued and highly respected member of his division in the U.S. Army."

In school, "Whitey" was most noted for his enthusiasm in basketball during the four years of high school and as team captain during the senior year besides playing an active part in the Sports Club Chorus and a member of the National Honor Society for last three years of high school.

Ready to help
Raymond Andrews, among the many neighbors and friends, recalls the personal involvement David had in his work at his stepfather's garage in town and the unselfish, spare-of-the-moment time he gave in helping out. "Even during his short leave," Andrews said, "David came to check out the trouble with my car and fixed it."

Justification in the loss of a son through death in war remains the ultimate intimacy of the parent.

Mrs. Strausberger did say that she would like to support efforts for a war memorial in the community of all the young men who have died in action in the Vietnam War and the Korean War.

Bartholomew was also awarded the National Defense Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Ribbon and Combat Infantryman's Badge.

Simple lever pulling not good voting

A simple pull of the lever for one party voting was a gimmick used for selling voting machines, not for intelligent voters. It was great for salesmen, but terrible for citizens selecting government representatives.

Thus, The Pocono Record today strongly urges each registered voter to carefully select the man best suited for office and then vote for the individual, not for the party.

When each of us enters the voting booth on Tuesday, we have the right to feel that our ballot will settle the election of a president, senator, auditor general, state treasurer, representative and a judge — for well it might.

Due to the three-cornered fight for the presidency of the United States, there is a genuine feeling that this year's race may finally be settled by the House of Representatives.

Pulling a single lever to cover all of the candidates in any one of the parties involved in the election indicates one of two things — laziness or a lack of concern.

Each office should be regarded as if it was the most important on the ballot. Never should one candidate be overlooked through a simple movement of a single lever on a voting machine.

That single pull could change the conduct of our government and also the course of an individual life. Each citizen should put as much into voting as he expects to get out of good government.

Every registered voter in our community owes it to himself, his family and friends to cast a vote Tuesday.

Only a conscientious voter can complain about the government. Because only he played a major role in its election.

We now have hope

A complete halt in the bombing of North Vietnam by the United States certainly doesn't mark the end of the war in Vietnam. However, it could be the beginning of the end.

Regardless of how the end of the bombing raids was received, the move must be considered encouraging.

President Johnson is being praised on one hand for brilliant negotiations and condemned on the other for a political move. Each of us can make his own assumption, but the fact remains that peace, or at least the hope for peace, is that much closer.

Although the move has caused everyone's hopes to soar, we must all guard against over enthusiasm. It is quite possible that the peace talks may break up at a minute's notice and full scale war return to the scene.

It is evident, regardless of how we feel about the sudden end of bombing raids, that the United States is doing all in its power to bring about a peaceful settlement of hostilities in Vietnam.

The very fact that Uncle Sam has brought about the bombing halt, and improvement in peace talks, virtually alone must be proving embarrassing to people in this country who have long condemned our government for prolonging the fighting in Asia.

But, regardless of our feelings of the past and our concern for the present, there is hope for the future. The hope may appear as the thinnest of threads — but it is hope.

However, we must also recognize that the United States can't continue to make all the concessions. Somewhere North Vietnam must also at least make some visible movements toward peace.

We can't be trampled on at the conference table. The next move must be made by the Communists if the peace talks in Paris are to be successful.

Nixon at political center

LOS ANGELES — Richard Nixon's campaign shows he wants to avoid becoming the prisoner of the political right.

If elected, Nixon would be a minority president only in the sense that, because of the three-way race, he would get less than 50 per cent of the popular vote.

But he would soon emerge as the president favored by a large conservative coalition made up of his own supporters, some disaffected Democrats and many Wallaceites which will almost certainly dominate the voting on Tuesday.

At first sight this might look very inviting to a president who will need all the public backing he can muster from whatever source in order to govern effectively.

But from nearly everything he has been saying and doing since his nomination, it is apparent that Nixon is aiming to build by his actions, present and future, a different coalition—one moored firmly at the broad political center.

That's where Nixon sees himself standing and it is from this vantage point he expects to fashion a new governing majority.

This explains why Nixon is sharply separating himself from the hard-core Wallace supporters and why, at the same time, he is carefully avoiding personal attacks on President Johnson, though criticizing Johnson policies.

Not courting right

Nixon quite purposefully is not courting the extreme right in his own party or the extreme right in the Democratic Party. And he obviously wants no part of the disgruntled, pacifist, let-the-aggressors-have-their-way New Life, which can agree on nothing but to obstruct and tear down.

By spurning the New Left and rejecting the far right (Republican and Democratic) Nixon shows that he believes he can become the catalyst of a wide and durable coalition of moderate conservatives and moderate liberals who will be responsive to his type of non-doctrinaire, get-things-done pragmatism.

His objective is to find practical answers to the nation's acute racial and social problems and his search is for what is most workable regardless of whether his measures get labeled conservative or liberal.

There is no doubt that Nixon is conservative in that he wants to arrest the flow of power to Washington by sharing federal funds and returning political initiative to state and local government and in that he doesn't assume that appropriating a billion dollars is necessarily the best way of solving a problem. But he is not likely to be the type of conservative who tends to use conservative words as a device to justify doing nothing.

Nixon's campaign statements seem just as insistent as Hubert Humphrey's that law and order cannot be achieved in a vacuum of government indifference to the causes of lawlessness and disorder. Humphrey said that civil order and civil progress must come simultaneously and that one cannot be achieved without the other. Nixon says he stands for "law, order and justice" and that the nation cannot win respect for law unless it has laws which deserve respect.

This is the stand aimed to rally the political center.

Status symbol

WASHINGTON — Your intrepid correspondent has just learned that he is "in" and to be perfectly frank about it, he would just as soon be out. By that I mean out living in the garage or out in the country or any place where a man might find quiet and sane companions.

I cannot remember another period in history when world events have aligned themselves in such a conspiracy against me. It is almost more than I can bear, and for that reason I must share it with you. If you'll recall, at the time of Gov. Spiro Agnew's elevation to political stardom, I mentioned that my wife is Greek.

Yes, well, if you think she was hard to get along with after the Republican convention, you should see (or hear) her now. This morning, for instance, I had just stumbled into the kitchen and was groping for my first cup of coffee, when she of the shiny black hair, the flashing dark eyes and the big mouth, was watching my usual morning agony.

"You!" she said, suddenly. I didn't answer her, but I thought, so who was she expecting.

Will Humphrey defy polls?

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — If Hubert H. Humphrey defies the polls and wins the White House, he will owe a debt of gratitude to a few political technicians who created a national campaign organization from the bottom up in a few short weeks.

Handicapped by lack of funds, shortage of time and lingering bitterness after the chaotic Democratic National Convention, Humphrey's campaign organization hardly functioned at all in September.

Under the direction of Lawrence F. O'Brien, Humphrey's hand-picked chairman of the Democratic National Committee, the campaign organization took shape in October and by the end of the month it was going full steam ahead.

As one Humphrey staffer said, "You can't accuse us of 'peaking' too soon."

Organization background

When O'Brien replaced John Bailey in August, as head of the national committee, he found a nearly empty treasury and a suite of empty offices in party headquarters in Washington, D.C.

O'Brien, aided by veteran Minnesota political associates of the vice president, brought in new staff members and began to revitalize the political operations of the DNC.

Robert E. Short, a Minneapolis industrialist and longtime Humphrey ally, began the search for funds in his new post as party treasurer.

And O'Brien used his persuasive talents to convince former Kennedy and McCarthy backers to join the campaign.

Among his major converts were Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary to President Kennedy, and Kenneth P. O'Donnell, President Kennedy's appointments secretary. Like O'Brien himself, O'Donnell was an original member of the "Irish Mafia" that helped Kennedy win the presidency in 1960.

Among McCarthy backers, former Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell joined the Humphrey camp as a vice chairman of the Citizens for Humphrey-Muskie organization. Mitchell was McCarthy's chief spokesman at the Chicago convention.

Campaign organization

As election day approached, the Humphrey campaign included three major elements: long-time political advisers, many of whom campaigned with the vice president; the official vice presidential staff; and the formal party organizations.

Humphrey's senior advisers, in addition to O'Brien, included Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman; Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz; Max Kampelman, a Washington attorney and

Electoral College still intact despite 100 attempts at change

This year of 1968, politically, is filled with surprises and shocks. With at least three candidates in the running, we could fail to have a majority in the Electoral College, and the Presidential election would then be thrown into the House of Representatives.

What is the Electoral College?

The president and vice president of the United States are the only elective Federal officials not elected by the direct vote of the people. They are elected by the members of the Electoral College, a method that has survived since the founding of the nation, despite more than 100 attempts in congress to alter or abolish it.

It is possible for a candidate to poll the largest popular vote and still fail to get a majority of the Electoral College. It happened in 1824, 1876, and 1888, and it could happen, eighty years later, in 1968.

According to Constitution

In the original Constitution, ratified in 1781, the Electoral College was set up in Art. II, as the method for electing the President and Vice-President in the United States. (In 1789 there were 13 states.)

This was amended in 1804 and the amendment became Art. XII of the Constitution. (From 1852-1860 California had four votes, now has 40 votes.)

Accordingly, on Presidential Election Day, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in every 4th year (Nov. 5, 1968), each state chooses as many electors as it has Senators and Representatives in Congress. Presidential candidates of both parties select electors to "stand in" for them. In Pennsylvania it has been customary for the State Chairman to recommend electors. This is done 30 days after the presidential nominees have been chosen.

These recommendations for electors are then certified by the presidential nominees. The candidates for elector of the Party receiving the highest popular vote in each state "are elected". They meet the first Monday after the second Wednesday in December at their respective state capitals, or in some other place prescribed by the state legislature (In Pennsylvania, Harrisburg). By long established custom they vote for their party nominees, thus giving the Party's nominees all of the state's electoral votes (In Pennsylvania, 20), although the Constitution does not require them to do so. In 1960 there were 15 "unpledged electors" who didn't vote for either Kennedy or Nixon.

Certified and sealed lists of the votes of the electors of each state are mailed to the President of the U. S. Senate, who opens them in the presence of the members of the Senate and House of Representatives in a joint session, held on January 6th, unless it falls on a Sunday. (In 1969, Jan. 6th falls on a Monday) and the electoral votes are then counted.

If no candidate for President has a majority, the House of Representatives chooses a President from among the three highest candidates, with all Representatives from each state combining to cast one vote for that state.

If no candidate for vice-president has a majority, the Senate chooses from the top two, senators voting as individuals. There can be no change in this method of electing a President unless an amendment to the constitution is passed by congress and is then ratified by three-fourths of the states.

The Electoral College today has a total of 538 votes, arrived at by adding 100 for the Senators, 435 for the Representatives, and 3 for the District of Columbia. It will take 270 to get a majority.

Present set-up

According to the vote in 1968 (based on the 1960 apportionment) the following is the vote of the seven big states in the Electoral College.

New York	43
California	40
Pennsylvania	29
Illinois	26
Ohio	26
Texas	25
Michigan	21
Total	210

These seven states total 60 electoral votes short of election.

Suggested reforms

Various plans have been suggested for reform.

One suggestion would base the electoral vote on the congressional districts. At various times, electoral college reform committees have been set up in Washington. In 1965, after the Goldwater Campaign, a committee was established, called "Electoral College Reform Committee", Room 457 Munsey Building, Washington, D. C. (now closed.) Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, to mention one Senator, is interested in electoral college reform. This subject is given impetus, as evidenced by the fact that the legislators of 10 states, most of them in the middle west and Rocky Mountain areas, have asked the Congress to submit a proper amendment to the states for ratification. Ten senators, including Senator Mundt, representing both parties, introduced a joint Senate Resolution number 12 in 1965. These men recommend that two members of the Electoral College representing "Senators" be chosen state-wide; and the others, representing "Congressmen" be chosen as the congressmen are chosen within the congressional district.

Inequality of present system

"Under the present system, voters in such states as Vermont, Nevada and Delaware, vote for only three electors, while in New York they will vote for forty-three and in California for forty. This gross inequality and violation of the Civil Rights of every voter outside of New York State is dramatized by the fact that the "vote-power" of an individual citizen in New York for example is almost 15 times as great as that of an equally able and prominent citizen living in Delaware, Vermont, Nevada, or other of our less populous states."

The Pennsylvania Story

Taxes key issue

By MASON DENISON

HARRISBURG — The ghost of taxes past and the spectre of taxes in the future haunt the fight at the polls Tuesday for control of the State House of Representatives.

Of course, it is the Democratic Party that has most to say about taxes; Republicans would just as soon forget the $370 million in new taxes passed by the Legislature in 1967.

One of the charges Democrats have made rather consistently is that the business and financial interests have had their tax load reduced while the consumer has had to bear the brunt of the new tax load.

Ironically, an organization that is seldom allied with Democrats — the State Chamber of Commerce — perhaps inadvertently has given confirmation of sorts to the Democratic claim.

$38 million rebate

At a state meeting of the chamber recently, President Donald S. Shepherd talked about the chamber's activities during the past year. He reviewed the tax situation and then pointed to a recent decision by Attorney General William C. Sennett that gave businesses a $38 million rebate on Unemployment Compensation.

"That more than balances the books," he said.

Representative Herbert Fineman, Democratic House Floor Leader, was one of the invited guests at the meeting.

"This statement confirms exactly what we are saying," Fineman opined. "That is, that business interests, particularly big utilities, oil companies, manufacturers, banks and major insurance companies, are paying less taxes than when Gov. Raymond Shafer came into office while the ordinary working man is paying more."

Earlier a Democratic position paper reviewed the unemployment compensation reductions and the increase in taxes and concluded:

"While the consumer was being saddled with $262.6 million in new taxes, big business was actually benefiting from a tax reduction."

All told, 10 new or increased taxes were passed in the last part of 1967. Of this number four were on business while six were on the consumer. The business taxes amounted to $103.8 million annually, less than one-third of the total increase. This was dwarfed by the increase in sales tax alone, which was designed to bring $131.4 million annually into the state's coffers.

But the business taxes were quickly off-set by the so-called "Rockwell amendment," which reduced business taxes by $17 million.

Business firms also received a regular reduction in their unemployment compensation taxes of $24 million because of lower rates.

Suit against state

However, the State Chamber of Commerce brought suit against the state to bring further reductions into effect. They received a lower court ruling that would have lowered the unemployment compensation tax by an amount estimated to be between $60 and $87 million.

Then, suddenly a compromise was reached, in which business firms were given what amounts to a $38 million "rebate."

Political technicians rebuild HHH into serious contention and longtime Humphrey ally, began the search for funds in his new post as party treasurer.

And O'Brien used his persuasive talents to convince former Kennedy and McCarthy backers to join the campaign.

Among his major converts were Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary to President Kennedy, and Kenneth P. O'Donnell, President Kennedy's appointments secretary. Like O'Brien himself, O'Donnell was an original member of the "Irish Mafia" that helped Kennedy win the presidency in 1960.

Campaign organization

As election day approached, the Humphrey campaign included three major elements: long-time political advisers, many of whom campaigned with the vice president; the official vice presidential staff; and the formal party organizations.

Humphrey's senior advisers, in addition to O'Brien, included Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman; Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz; Max Kampelman, a Washington attorney and former Humphrey aide; William Connell, Humphrey's executive assistant; and James H. Rowe Jr., a veteran Democratic adviser.

Others in the inner circle were Sen. Walter F. Mondale (D. Minn.), Sen. Fred R. Harris (D. Okla.), former United Nations Ambassador George W. Ball, and two Minnesota friends — Mrs. Geri Joseph, now vice chairman of the DNC, and former Ambassador Eugene Anderson.

Humphrey's official staff aides included press secretary Norman Sherman, William Welsh, Ted Van Dyk and foreign affairs specialist John Rielly.

Party groups

The two major party organizations are the Democratic National Committee, headed by O'Brien and Mrs. Joseph, and Citizens for Humphrey-Muskie, which coordinates volunteer efforts and runs dozens of temporary campaign committees for the Democratic ticket.

Heading the citizens operation is former Gov. Terry Sanford (N.C. 1961-1965). He is assisted by O'Donnell and Mitchell, who are national co-chairmen. A third co-chairman is former U.N. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg.

Both the DNC and the citizens group have extensive field staffs of political operatives and advance men who are directly responsible for particular states or regions.

Despite a nominal division of campaign tasks between the citizens organization and the national committee, there is a great deal of overlap between them.

Unlike the GOP campaign, one Democratic aide told Congressional Quarterly, "We didn't have time to set up elaborate organization charts with titles and hierarchies."

During the early weeks of the campaign, in fact, committees were formed spontaneously — sometimes without official sanction — to perform emergency tasks.

One such committee — the National Committee of Finance and Industry for Humphrey-Muskie — was organized by one man in early October in order to speed campaign buttons and bumper stickers to key states.

During three weeks of hectic activity, the one-man operation distributed more than 1.5 million pieces of campaign material.

Only after the committee got started was the Democratic National Committee's own moribund campaign materials division reorganized to take over the task of distribution. The ad hoc Committee of Finance and Industry then was more or less absorbed into the regular campaign groups.

Nixon could trip on electoral vote

By DONALD R. LARRABEE
Washington Bureau Chief

WASHINGTON — An estimated 75 million Americans will go to the polls Tuesday to draw the curtain on the most traumatic election year in recent memory.

Virtually every advance poll, sampling, and computerized calculation suggests that Richard M. Nixon will capture the Presidency and regain the White House for the Republicans after an eight-year drought.

But a late surge by Democratic nominee Hubert Humphrey, combined with the uncertain impact of the Third Party candidacy of George C. Wallace and the volatile nature of the electorate in this incredibly unpredictable election year have forced most pundits to hedge their bets in the closing days of the campaign.

The outlook is still for a Nixon victory but not by the margins anticipated earlier in the Fall. There is a growing body of opinion that the former Vice President will win a popular plurality but not an electoral college majority.

This is suggested in a poll conducted by the Ottaway News Service Washington Bureau during the past week among tourists visiting the U. S. Capitol Building from most sections of the country.

The experts who concede the election to Nixon at the same time are almost unanimously agreed that the Republican nominee will not have enough coal-tail strength to carry along a GOP House of Representatives or Senate.

The prospect is for badly divided government and a plethora of trouble for the next President, whoever it may be.

If Vice President Humphrey is able to realize his best hopes and gain enough electoral support to throw the election into the House, he may be able to win the Presidency but he will have a conservative Congress on his hands and a frustrated Executive Branch at his feet.

In a number of Southern and border states, which once were thought certain for Wallace, there are fresh indications that Humphrey may capture enough Negro votes combined with the usual Democratic white majority to emerge as the winner in a close three-way contest.

In the event the contest is thrown into the House, Humphrey says he hopes congressmen will vote for the man they believe best qualified to run the country. Nixon says he believes members of the House should vote for the candidate who receives the largest popular vote, regardless of their political affiliations. His stress on this point during the past 72 hours has convinced many observers that he, himself, expects a popular vote victory but an electoral stalemate.

If the election goes to the House, because no one of the three major candidates wins a majority of the electoral votes (270 out of 538), it will be the first time it has happened since the evolution of our present two-party system.

Governor Wallace is on record as opposing an election by the House of Representatives. During the six-week period between Nov. 5 and Dec. 16 when the electors meet, Wallace thus would be expected to negotiate and drive a hard bargain over who will occupy the White House in the next four years.

This 1968 election report has been compiled by reporters of the Pocono Record and its Washington Bureau.

Humphrey, once again the happy warrior

By MARY C. BERRY

A happy, hopeful Hubert H. Humphrey dashed through the urban industrial northeast last week, urging union members and party workers to get out the vote next Tuesday.

"I want you to vote at least twice now," the Happy Warrior told an enthusiastic, although disappointingly small, audience in Manhattan's garment district Wednesday. What he meant, he said, was vote yourself early in the morning and then convince a friend or neighbor to vote at noon.

"I want my friends there," said Humphrey, meaning at the polls.

Pennsylvania is a case in point — perhaps the best case. Humphrey must win Philadelphia by a margin of at least 200,000 votes in order to carry the state.

At a Democratic fund raising dinner there Tuesday night, party leaders pleaded with about 5,000 bored party workers and their befurred wives for the magic margin.

But Humphrey was confident. Standing in the hall which has played an important role in his own personal political odyssey (it was here that he gave his party-shattering civil rights speech in 1948), the Vice President said, "I know I can depend on the city of Philadelphia

Republicans

Nixon finishes up on offensive

By MATTHEW V. STORIN

In Theodore H. White's, "The Making of the President, 1960," Richard M. Nixon is cast as a buffoon. Not only does he meet with failure in the end, but his performance over the long months of the campaign against John F. Kennedy is criticized by White in considerable detail.

Nixon's pledge to visit all 50 states, his senseless overscheduling from day to day with resultant fatigue, his decision to debate Kennedy, his isolation from newsmen who were rarely allowed on the candidate's airplane — all these and many other factors were catalogued by the author as leading to Nixon's defeat.

This may have been unfair because, after all, Nixon only received about 100,000 fewer votes than Kennedy out of 70 million cast.

But the book must haunt Nixon at times, wondering what would be said if he loses this time.

From the very start of his campaign Nixon rectified the mistakes of 1960 which were listed above. But as Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign seemed to catch fire in recent days, Nixon seemed to take stock of his operation and ask himself where Teddy White might be able to fault him.

Of course the overwhelming impression given by the early stages of Nixon's campaign was one of caution, particularly in avoiding flashes of the "old Nixon" image — shooting from the hip, etc.

The past few days, the Republican candidate has shown that he does not intend to be the "toroise" that was caught at the finish line by "hare" Humphrey. Nixon has gone on the offensive.

Perhaps his only overreaction personally was in accusing the New York Times of the "lowest form of gutter politics" when the newspaper raised an old conflict-of-interest issue concerning Nixon's running mate Spiro T. Agnew.

The only mistake of the Nixon organization seems to have been the use of a television commercial during "Laugh In" on NBC Monday night which was notable in its lack of taste.

The spot showed Humphrey laughing in juxtaposition with shots of dead U. S. soldiers in Vietnam, riots on American streets and impoverished children. The commercial was canceled by Nixon headquarters the next day and will take its place presumably on the shelf with the Democratic spot in 1964 which attacked Goldwater by showing a little girl picking flowers and then a nuclear mushroom cloud.

On the other hand, there have been some effective onslaughts by the candidate. He probably has made Humphrey squirm with repeated demands that the Democratic candidate agree to abide by the popular vote outcome. This hints at Humphrey's best probable chance to win the election, in the House of Representatives. Humphrey has refused to say he would go along with the popular majority vote in such circumstances.

The polls, particularly those reported out

Easing up

Republican Presidential nominee relaxes a bit as he addresses 10,000 supporters at Merrin Airport, Marion, Ill.

of individual key states like Ohio, Illinois and New Jersey, indicate Nixon has little to worry about. But there is always the third party strength of George Wallace and the widely held feeling that on election day it will be hard to predict how well the former Alabama governor has held his strength together.

There is something else to trouble the prognosticators too.

In this election campaign, especially in the late days of this campaign, the lethargy and apathy of people along the campaign routes of Nixon and Humphrey has been startling.

This fact along with reported man-on-the-street comments from across the country indicates the presence of a large anti-vote. People are planning to vote for Nixon because they "can't stand" Humphrey, or they are going with Humphrey because they "Don't want to see Nixon in the White House."

Nixon, for one, seems to be taking nothing for granted. For him, Tuesday probably can't come fast enough.

Wallace

Wallace-electorate romance stands out

By DAVID B. OTTAWAY

The romance between George Corley Wallace and the American electorate is undoubtedly the most striking feature of the 1968 presidential campaign.

More ink has been spilled, emotions stirred, voices raised, and invective spewed over the Alabama third party candidate than over either Richard M. Nixon or Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. If nothing else, Wallace has provided some salt in an otherwise tasteless unappetizing campaign.

The best that has been said of him is that he is the most honest and courageous of the candidates, the only one who has spoken his mind and been consistent in what he says, the only candidate who has articulated the demands of the workers, housewives, and forgotten "little people" of America.

The worst that has been said of him is that he is a demagogue, a modern-day Adolph Hitler, a racist in thin disguise as a states rights advocate, and an "apostle of fear and hate."

Whether saint or Satan, Wallace has provided the greatest challenge to the American two-party system since Theodore Roosevelt led the "Bull Moose" Party to defeat in 1912.

He has polarized America, further dividing race against race, more than any national political leader the country has known in this century. This he has done by exploiting the one issue of law and order—two emotionally packed words that have come to mean salvation to the whites and oppression to the blacks.

The major irony of the Wallace campaign has been that wherever he has gone preaching law and order the Alabama segregationist has attracted legions of hecklers and provoked outbursts of violence.

A Wallace rally is no thing of great beauty: black militants and white student activists, their eyes afire with hate and violence, shout at the top of their lungs, while equally hateful Wallace supporters scream back in an attempt to drown them out. He threat of violence is ever present, fist fights and brawls are common, and only a phalanx of policemen and dozens of secret servicemen stand between a fragile peace and total chaos.

Yet, Wallace cannot be kept from speaking and will not be washed away.

His campaign has been extraordinary by all standards.

He has built his American Independent Party from its deep Southern base into a nationwide movement in less than nine months. He has gotten himself on the ballot in all 50 states by dint of hard work and thousands upon thousands of small contributions, a feat no other third party in American history has equalled.

Nor has a Southern-based party ever before sunk roots so deep in the North.

Spokesman of a rebellious South now in the midst of its second Reconstruction Era, Wallace has cleverly made the cause of the South that of millions of Northerners who have recently found "the Negro Problem" to be their own as well—integration of schools and neighborhoods, open housing, and riots in the big cities.

Nixon and Humphrey have done their best to scare voters away from Wallace by conjuring up the spectre of a divided nation and a race war. And they have done their best to win Wallace voters over by making the law and order issue central to their respective campaigns.

Wallace used to say there was not a "dime's worth of difference" between the two major party candidates and only he represented a real change for America. Now he proudly proclaims there is not a "dime's worth of difference" between what he has been demanding and what Nixon and Humphrey are promising on the issue of law and order.

Wallace just may be ringing his own death knell. If there is no longer any difference between what he and the two major party candidates are saying, then is there any reason to vote for him?

In fact, the latest polls show a drop in Wallace's strength from about 20 to 15 per cent of the vote. This may be the first sign that Wallace is going the way of all other third party candidates.

Traditionally, the platforms of third party candidates have been taken over by one of the two major parties, and the dissident movement has faded into the pages of history.

Plurality poll favors Nixon

During the past week, the five-man staff of the Ottaway News Service Washington Bureau buttonholed tourist at the Capital to determine their presidential preferences. The poll covered 311 persons who were asked to specify their sex, age, the states from which they come and whether they are registered to vote.

The results showed that Nixon would win a popular plurality but left in doubt whether he could obtain the necessary electoral votes for a clear-cut victory. The sampling gave Nixon 49 per cent of the vote; Humphrey, 40 per cent; Wallace, six per cent, with five per cent undecided.

The percentages are remarkably close to those of the major national polls by George Gallup and Lou Harris if certain allowances are made. For instance, no voters turned up from nine states, including Alabama, Arkansas and Georgia where Wallace is expected to win or run strongly.

In terms of electoral votes, the Capital Poll gives Nixon 18 states, including New York and California, for a total of 220 electoral votes; allows Humphrey eight states with 94 votes (including the District of Columbia); gives Wallace Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi for 39 votes and leaves 21 other states with 185 crucial votes as toss-ups.

The Poll also showed that men overwhelmingly preferred Nixon to Humphrey, that voters between 21 and 30 liked the Republican standard bearer, while those between the ages of 31 and 40 favored Humphrey, after which Nixon again takes over.

While making no claims for the credibility of its own poll, the Bureau believes that it represents a reasonable cross-section of America although the so-called "working man" was probably under-represented.

The Capitol Poll has been right in the past. It was tried in 1952 and correctly predicted the Eisenhower landslide that year, state-by-state.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

The women attending the Medical Auxiliary luncheon the other day, not only had a sort of covetous look as they looked at the decorated bags, any one of which is guaranteed to be a conversation piece of any hen party, but they also looked sort of calculating.

Like an espionage agent trying to get a look at the blue print of a bomb site without looking as if he's really looking. Or a gourmet cook out to acquire a friend's secret recipe as she concentrates on trying to savor its special ingredient.

However, any hopes they might have had of turning out a raft of $42 Christmas gift bags from 93 cent baskets and scraps they have around the house were dispelled when they had a chance to inspect the bags more closely.

Not only would the ingredients be expensive but wrapping burs with yarn to make grapes or doing needlepoint on leather would not only be time consuming but very rough on the fingers. However, don't be surprised if you see a few budget facsimiles.

Peggy Brannum, enthusiastic about her role as psychiatric aide in the Mental Health Wing, was interested from another angle. Those red Christmas table mats with the snap-on Christmas trees all decorated struck her as "wonderful therapy."

One thing I might tackle is hand-painting golf balls. With flowers, I think.

Jenene M. DeMars weds in Mt. Pocono

MOUNT POCONO — Miss Jenene Marie DeMars, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Joseph DeMars of 63 Fairview Ave., Mount Pocono, was married at St. Mary of the Mount Catholic Church, Mount Pocono, on Oct. 19 at 11:45 a.m. to Gregg Warmbier.

He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael C. Warmbier of Effingham, Ill.

Msgr. John Walsh officiated at the ceremony. The altar was decorated with mums in Fall colors, white and oak bouquets.

Music featured Gounod's "Ave Maria"; "On This Day O Beautiful Mother"; and "Edelweiss."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional floor length gown of peau de soie with a train falling from the shoulders. Both the gown and train were trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace. A cluster of sweetheart roses, lace and tear-drop pearls held her fingertip veil, of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white button mums centered by a cluster of sweetheart roses and a cascade of ivy.

Miss Kathleen A. DeMars, sister of the bride, of 901 Eighth Ave., New York N.Y., was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of autumn gold silk with a back panel. She wore elbow length gloves in a deep gold and carried a bouquet of bittersweet and gold pompons.

Miss Joan Warmbier was bridesmaid and wore a gown in the same style in moss green and carried a bouquet of yellow. Their floral head pieces were of deep gold.

Michael Warmbier of 1020 was his brother's best man.

Ushers were Norbert DeMars Jr. and Robert DeMars, brothers of the bride and Karl Nachtmann of Toledo, Ohio.

A reception for 65 guests was held at the Tobyhanna Army Depot Officers Club.

For traveling the bride wore an orchid knit dress and orchid corsage. After a honeymoon in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, Mr. and Mrs. Warmbier will be at home at 305 North Roosevelt Ave., No. 3 Columbus, Ohio.

The bride is a graduate of St. Ursula Academy, Toledo Ohio and attended Davis Junior College of Business, University of Toledo. She is associated with American-Standard, Columbus, in the advertising department.

Her husband attended the University of Illinois and the University of Toledo. He is in the engineering department of Worthington Foods, Columbus, Ohio.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Frederick, Toledo, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. James Brady, Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. C. McDewitt and daughter Karen, Toledo, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. B. P. DeMars and daughter, Linda, of Royal Oak, Mich.; Miss Margaret Ray Toledo, Ohio; Michael Warmbier Jr., Susan Warmbier Donald and Fred Warmbier, and Ted Carothers all of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The class decided to combine their November and December meetings with a Christmas party to be held the first Wednesday in December at the home of Mrs. Charles Hobbs in Scottdale. Dollar gifts will be exchanged and there will be nomination and election of officers.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Susan Bittenbender, Mrs. Elsie Kresge and Mrs. Ruth Shoemaker.

History-making horsewoman sort of local

EAST STROUDSBURG — This area's closest connection in the Olympics just closed was probably Kathy Kusner who rode in the horsemanship division.

Kathy made news again last week when she became the first woman in the nation to hold a jockey's license. She was granted the license by the Maryland Racing Commission while riding in the International Horse Show at the Washington Armory.

Kathy is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Aubrey Vail of Franklin Hill where she grew up. Mrs. Kusner still has a home there and is planning to make it her permanent residence.

Medical Auxiliary hosts a luncheon

STROUDSBURG — The Women's Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society prepared and served a luncheon for 130 guests at the First Presbyterian Church, Stroudsburg, on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. F. O. Headrick and Mrs. John L. Ramsey were co-chairmen of the luncheon which was climaxed by the circulation of a pastry cart on which the doctor's wives had lavished their favorite recipes.

The program featured "Crafts by Nan" when O. F. Schulte of Buck Hill Falls and Sarasota, Fla., displayed a wide sampling of her custom made gifts.

The major portion of her showing was the hand crafted bags, most of them made from baskets, each individualized with flowers, leather, needlepoint, quilted fabric, velvet, metal and paint.

Each basket was lined, fitted with mirror and zipped coin purse, often with interior decorations carrying out the theme of the outside decorations.

In one wide-woven basket, for instance, a farm scene painted around the outside was lined with a miniature print like a calico crazy-quilt.

Who's your orthodontist?

I saw a 13-year-old girl ogling my son the other day and as anxious as I am to unload him I wanted to rush right over and say to her, "Open your mouth, kid and I'll see if you're good enough for him."

I know this sounds dramatic, but when you've made payments on a child's dental work for the last 12 years it's not, "Who's your father?" but "Who's your orthodontist?" that really counts.

My husband places the entire blame for our children's soft teeth on me. "If you hadn't whiled away your entire pregnancy sipping cola and reading Photoplays, our children wouldn't have a bite problem today."

On my son's first trip to the dentist, he racked up five cavities. "Don't look upon it as pain," I counseled, "but as a new permanent I sacrificed." Six months later he got three more fillings and I was forced financially to drop my Y membership. X-rays, extractions and cleaning costs over the years cost me slipcovers for the living room, bathroom, carpeting, a winter coat and new eyeglasses.

Finally, one day the dentist said, "Have you looked into your son's mouth lately?"

"Of course we've looked into his mouth," I said. "It's the only recreation left that we can afford."

"If you will note," he continued, "his teeth are erupting through the roof of his mouth."

I shivered. "You're trying to tell me my son is a werewolf?" "I'm trying to tell you your son needs space maintainers to guide these teeth where they belong."

As I told the family, "Who needs a two-week vacation when we've saved our son from becoming a monster card."

Last year we got a real blow. He wasn't masticating his food properly and we were told he needed braces. Sure I had to let my insurance policy lapse. Sure I had to put off surgery. Sure I had to paint my varicose veins so they would look like textured stockings. But who looks at a mother when her son has a sexy mouth?

That's why when I saw the 13-year-old hopeful make her move I blocked her at the pass. As she smiled I couldn't help but notice her two front teeth overlapped and she had a second-year molar that was in trouble. "Look honey, I said, leading her away from my son, 'take it from me, my boy is not for you. Why don't you develop your personality and some day when some nice boy with crooked teeth comes along...." So, kill me for being a mother!

No one knows what plant Homer's "lotus" was that made Ulysses's men go AWOL.

Vote out 'third raters'

Dear Ann Landers: Recently, you told "Bellyful" that not all politicians are phonies and power-hungry egomaniacs. You said there were some very decent people holding public office — sincere, honest, dedicated individuals who could have a much easier life if they chose another career.

I'm sure you are correct when you say not all politicians are third-raters, but it's those 95 per cent that make the other five per cent look bad. Do you have the courage to print this? We'll see.

Bellyful Number 2

Dear Number 2: People get the kind of government they deserve. If you've had a bellyful of "third-raters," why don't you do something about it?

By now I hope you have.

informed yourself on the issues, learned what the candidates stand for — or what they won't stand for. You should also compare the candidates' campaign promises with their past performances. Tomorrow you get an opportunity to express yourself. Please get off your back porch and vote for the men you believe will lead our country in the direction it should go.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 20-year-old woman who is contemplating marriage to a fine man. The problem — although I have gone over his wonderful qualities in my mind at least 1,000 times, I feel there is some element of excitement missing in our relationship.

We are planning a winter wedding and still there are nagging doubts — even as I purchase linen and household furnishings.

Last week I confided my uncertainty to my mother and she said, "Don't worry, things will work out. I experienced the same doubts when I married your father 30 years ago." My father heard her say this and now he is so depressed I can barely stand to look at him. He is convinced my mother did not love him when they married and that she has been pretending ever since.

Yesterday she said, "Don't marry until a man comes along who really and truly thrills you." What should I do?

FEELING MIGHTY LOW

Dear Low: Sounds as if your mother and dad could use a little counseling. They weren't much help to you — like none at all.

I suggest you postpone your wedding plans for a year. You're only 20 — where's the fire? Date others and make comparisons. And when you decide what you want to do, don't poll your parents for opinions.

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago I read that Japanese people do not snore because of the traditional pillow they use. It is a block of wood four to six inches in height, and the person rests his head on it in such a way that the head is tilted back and snoring cannot occur. At least this is the way I heard it.

I have not asked my husband to try it because he does not snore. Will you try it, Ann, and let us know if it works?

G.A.

Dear G.A.: I don't snore, either. However, I hope someone out there perhaps one of my readers of the Asahi Evening News in Tokyo will let us know if it works.

Offer reward for hit-run information

STROUDSBURG — A reward of $100 is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of person or persons responsible for the "hit and run" injury to Miss Margaret Lyons, 18, of 1139 Chipperfield Dr., Stroudsburg.

The announcement was made by Edward D. Lyons, Miss Lyons' father, who reported in satisfactory condition Thursday night in the General Hospital of Monroe County after being struck by a car on Oct. 18 near Mountainhome on Route 300.

Miss Lyons was struck from behind as she was walking with three other girls back to Buck Hill where they were working as weekend waitresses.

The driver of the car had failed to stop. It was reported that the car's right headlight was smashed when it struck the girl. It is believed that the driver of the car was trying to scare Miss Lyons and the three other girls.

The make, body or color of the car could not be identified. An all points bulletin to all Monroe County and borough police units remains active.

WILKES-BARRE — Planning meetings are currently being held by Senior Girl Scouts of Penn's Woods Council for the '69 Arts Expo to be held April 18, 19 and 20 in Wilkes-Barre.

Christian missionaries under pressure in India

NEW DELHI (AP) — Darkening clouds of suspicion and hostility are settling over Christian missionaries in parts of India.

Though long the target of nationalist groups, missionaries operated fairly freely when Jawaharlal Nehru's Congress party was in almost total control of India's state governments.

The erosion of Congress power and the emergence of less secular-minded parties to positions of influence have soured the atmosphere for missionaries in several states.

The Congress-run central government maintains Nehru's fairly tolerant though watchful attitude.

A Home Ministry spokesman says foreign missionaries already in India will be allowed to stay "so long as we don't have anything against them."

No new missionary will be allowed to enter the country unless an Indian Christian is unavailable to do his job, he adds.

This means that few new missionaries are coming to India. The total number of foreign missionaries has remained roughly at 5,000 for five years.

The treatment of missionaries in states where the militant pro-Hindu Jana Sangh party has taken root is less tolerant. It has called for throwing all foreign missionaries out of the country.

In a legal maneuver, the Madhya Pradesh home minister, Jana Sangh, charged that Christian missionaries were deceitfully converting the state's non-Hindu tribal hill people.

He claimed there is a Christian conspiracy to create a "belt of antinational forces" throughout eastern India which the next-door state of Orissa already had challenged by enacting a similar bill last December.

The problem, simply put, is that the powerful Christian missionary influence among the hill peoples of eastern India has had a political effect.

Operating for decades in northeastern Assam and Nagaland, missionaries are widely supposed to have imparted to the hill peoples a high literacy rate and a consciousness of their difference from the predominantly Hindu population of the plains.

This estrangement, possibly furthered but hardly created by the missionaries, smoldered and then erupted in guerrilla warfare in two heavily Christianized areas, Nagaland and the Mizo hills.

The Indian army is trying to quell the two rebellions, which may be aided by Pakistan and Communist China.

Peace For Our Children

For the last 20 years Russia and the U. S. have been engaged in a deadly arms race. Both have developed strategic missile forces fully capable of destroying the other. Each is now developing even more deadly weapons.

We are now spending over $80,000,000,000 a year on the military. Yet we have no security and we're neglecting urgently needed programs at home.

To solve the problems of our society and save our children from the burden and the danger of more armaments, we must control the arms race. We need men in Congress who are determined to work for realistic arms control agreements and inspection systems. If you want a change, change your Congressman.

True love possible at 16

TRUE LOVE? (Q). I've gone steady with this girl ever since June. She's 16, I'm 17. Would you answer three questions about our love:

(1) Can we really be in love at our age?

(2) Is it good to feel the way we do about each other?

(3) If you know when and where to stop, is petting wrong?

—A Reader in Dallas, Texas

(A). 1. Yes, genuine love is possible at 16 or 17. But this is not to say that one who loves at 16 or 17 won't have other and stronger loves later in life.

2. Feeling lovingly and strongly toward each other at your age is fine. You must not, though, let these feelings interfere with your education and other preparation for life. And you must recognize that either of you is likely to have a change of heart later.

3. If you know when and where to stop, and DO STOP at the right time and place, petting is normal and natural. It is especially important that you, the boy, discipline yourself in these warm moments.

RED LIPS: (Q). Lipstick always turns red on me. Any kind does. Lip gloss doesn't help. What can I do?

—V. P. of Kenosha, Wis.

(A). Lip gloss goes over lipstick to add sheen. You need something to go under your lipstick. Products to do the job you need done are on sale. Check at your cosmetics counter.

Of this number 13 classes, all for mentally retarded pupils in both elementary and high school grades, were provided by Monroe County School districts in their schools.

Monroe County School Board operated 11 special classes for mentally retarded, physically handicapped and socially and emotionally maladjusted in various schools of that county.

State funds for the cost of these classes were provided the year.

School districts are reimbursed for part of the cost of classes they provide after these classes are approved by the department.

The bidding:

1♥ Pass 2♠ Pass
3♥ Pass 5NT Pass 7♣
Opening lead—king of diamonds.
Very few players use asking bids, but there is no doubt that when the right hand comes along the asking bid is the perfect answer to what might otherwise be an insoluble problem.
This deal occurred in the 1963 U.S. Team Trials. It was played at eight tables, but only once was the excellent grand slam contract reached.
As a matter of fact, at three tables the North-South players failed to bid even a small slam!
The lone pair to reach seven were Californians Edwin Kantar and Marshall Miles, whose bidding went as shown.

Miles began with a jump-shift to two spades to reveal the promising nature of his hand and followed this with a leap to five clubs when Kantar rebid his hearts.
This unusual jump was an asking bid requiring North to define his club holding, which was South's chief concern in the hand.
A response of five diamonds (one step) would have indicated Q-x or worse; five hearts (two steps) the king or a singleton; five spades (three steps) the ace and at least one more club; five notrump (four steps) the singleton ace, the A-K, or a void in clubs.
So when Kantar responded five notrump, Miles knew his club losers were taken care of, and that the grand slam would come marching home except in the unlikely event that he lost a spade or a heart trick.
According to the convention, as played by Kantar and Miles, there could be no confusion about whether five clubs was an asking bid. The leap to five clubs (over three hearts) when a natural and forcing four club bid was available meant that South wanted to know North's precise club holding.
And Kantar, despite his minimum opening bid, obliged by telling Miles exactly what he was hoping to hear.

20-year performances of Humphrey, Nixon, Wallace probed

Records show deeds of top candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three leading candidates for president have been crisscrossing America for months, each telling voters he can handle the country's problems better than either of his opponents.

Civil rights, crime and labor have been among the key domestic issues as the candidates, with millions of words, have defended their own records and attacked those of their foes.

But what are the records that lie behind that oratory? What, for example, was independent party candidate George C. Wallace's record on labor legislation when he was governor of Alabama? And what is Democratic nominee Hubert H. Humphrey's record on crime? Or Republican Richard M. Nixon's record on civil rights?

To answer these and other questions, Associated Press reporters probed beyond the campaign words of the candidates to examine their deeds while in public office over the past 20 years.

Here are the candidates' records on civil rights, crime and labor:

CIVIL RIGHTS

Humphrey: As mayor of Minneapolis in 1946, Humphrey established a Mayor's Council on Human Relations to deal with alleged racial discrimination. He also won passage of the nation's first municipal fair employment practices act.

At the 1948 Democratic National Convention, Humphrey led a successful fight for a stronger civil rights platform plank.

As a member of the Senate from 1949 through 1954, Humphrey voted for the Civil Rights Acts of 1956, 1960 and 1964. He was floor leader for the 1964 bill and received much of the credit for its passage.

He voted against a bill in 1961 that would have prohibited the federal government from cutting off aid to segregated school districts. The bill was rejected.

One of Humphrey's tasks as vice president was to act as coordinator of government efforts in civil rights.

Nixon: Nixon served in the House from 1947 through 1950 and the Senate from 1951 through 1952. In 1949, he voted for a bill barring states from making payment of a poll tax a requirement for voting in national elections.

In 1950, Nixon voted for a bill establishing a Fair Employment Practices Commission with power to investigate, recommend and seek voluntary compliance. The bill had been substituted for a compulsory FEPC bill filed by President Truman.

As vice president from 1953 through 1960, Nixon was chairman of the President's Committee on Government Contracts. On May 9, 1957, Nixon asked the heads of federal contracting agencies to deny federal contracts to firms practicing racial discrimination.

When Congress convened in 1957, Nixon, as president of the Senate, gave an informal opinion that Senate rules could be changed by a majority vote. His position supported that of senators seeking to make it easier to stop filibusters aimed at blocking civil rights legislation.

In 1968, Nixon telephoned key Republicans in the House urging them to support the pending civil rights bill with its open housing provision.

In 1956, he described the Supreme Court ruling against school segregation as "but one step in a continuing process of giving substance and vitality to our democracy."

Wallace: Wallace first ran for governor of Alabama in 1958 but was defeated by John Patterson who received the support of the Ku Klux Klan. Wallace denounced the Klan and was endorsed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

After the gubernatorial election, Wallace returned to his post as a state circuit court judge. When the U.S. Civil Rights Commission asked to see voting records of counties within his judicial district, Wallace took possession of the records and threatened to jail any commission staff member who tried to get them.

A federal judge ordered Wallace to give up the records. He refused and was cited for contempt. Wallace later turned the records over to grand juries and was acquitted of the contempt charge.

Elected governor in 1962, Wallace closed his inaugural address with the cry: "Segregation now. Segregation tomorrow. Segregation forever."

In 1963 he stood in the administration building doorway at the University of Alabama to block entrance of two Negro students. President Kennedy federalized the Alabama National Guard and Wallace stepped aside on orders of the guard commander.

Wallace called the Alabama legislature into special session on Sept. 21, 1964, to adopt a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment that would bar federal courts from ordering integration of schools. The resolution passed both branches unanimously.

During a rash of bombings in Birmingham in 1965, Wallace called for passage of a state law placing stricter control on the manufacture and use of dynamite. The bill died in the legislature.

In Nov. 23, 1965, Wallace asked a federal court in Montgomery to bar enforcement of the 1965 federal Voting Rights Act on the grounds it was unconstitutional. His motion was denied.

On Sept. 2, 1966, he signed a bill which he had proposed to nullify all existing compliance agreements with federal integration guidelines.

CRIME

Wallace: During four years as governor, Wallace proposed and won passage of legislation expanding the state police force 25 per cent and creating four regional riot control units.

Fees for automobile license tags were raised to provide additional revenue for the state public safety department.

In 1963, the legislature passed a Wallace proposal to appropriate $5.5 million to modernize the state prison system.

Alabama state police were used to break up a voting rights demonstration at Selma in 1965. When civil rights leaders announced plans to march from Selma to Montgomery, Wallace, with support from the legislature, declared the state lacked manpower to protect civil rights demonstrators and asked for federal assistance.

Federal Bureau of Investigation crime rate statistics for 1965, while Wallace was governor, show Alabama with 1,068 total offenses per 100,000 inhabitants compared with a national average of 1,502.

For 1966, his last year as governor, the Alabama figure was 1,209 and the national average was 1,656.

Humphrey: After taking office as mayor of Minneapolis, Humphrey appointed a new police chief and ordered him to crack down on crime, particularly gambling and prostitution. He reorganized the police department and appointed a Citizen's Law Enforcement Committee.

As a senator, Humphrey introduced legislation to provide federal grants to state programs to combat juvenile delinquency.

In 1958, Humphrey voted against a proposal to bar questioning of a suspect unless he was first informed of the nature of the accusation and of his rights. In the same session, he opposed a bill to bar federal courts from disqualifying confessions solely because of a delay in bringing the suspect to arraignment.

Nixon: During Nixon's career in the House and Senate, there was no major legislation dealing with crime.

Nixon was active while in Congress in internal security matters. He headed the investigation that led to the conviction of Alger Hiss on a perjury charge in 1949.

LABOR

Nixon: Nixon served on the Labor Committees of both the House and Senate.

As a member of the House committee in 1947, he helped draft the Taft-Hartley Law. He voted for the bill's passage over a veto by President Harry S. Truman.

In 1949, Nixon voted to increase grants to states for administration of unemployment compensation and other employment programs. The same year he voted to increase the minimum wage to 75 cents an hour.

Wallace: While Wallace was governor he supported legislation increasing unemployment compensation to $38 a week in 1965, $42 in 1967 and $44 in 1968. He also supported increasing workmen's compensation from $33 a week to $38 in 1963.

Humphrey: Humphrey had strong labor support when he defeated incumbent Republican Sen. Joseph H. Ball in 1948. One campaign issue was Ball's vote in favor of the Taft-Hartley law.

In the Senate in 1949, Humphrey opposed a bill giving the president power to seek, injunctions and seize plants in strikes deemed national emergencies.

While in the Senate, Humphrey voted for increases in federal minimum wages. He also advocated extension of the National Labor Relations Act to farm workers.

ON LOCAL ISSUES

"I think the Tocks Island Recreation Area can be a great asset to Monroe County. But we must have truly just compensation for our property owners. We must have a constant level lake, except in times of flood. We must have Federal aid to local governments and school districts that suffer from loss of tax base and aid in handling the problems that additional visitors will create."

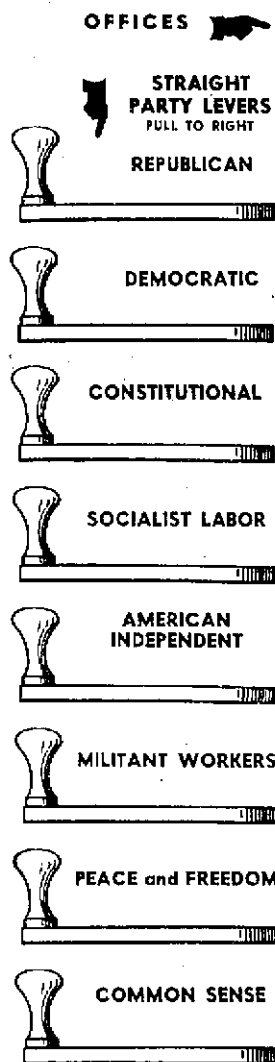

"Monroe County is a beautiful area. It should be developed carefully and thoughtfully so that its beauty and pleasant atmosphere can be preserved for visitors and residents alike. As your Congressman I will do everything possible to aid this kind of far-sighted development."

ESSC retains rating

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. Frank D. Sills, president of East Stroudsburg State College, announced today that the college has been reaccredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

According to a communication received from Dr. Rolf W. Larson, director of NCATE, an abbreviation for National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, the college has been reaccredited for preparing elementary and secondary teachers at the baccalaureate degree level.

During November, when the Fifteenth Annual List of Accredited Institutions is published, ESSC will be shown as being accredited for its teacher education programs.

The current accreditation period of ten years as decreed by NCATE will extend from September 1, 1968 to September 1, 1978. During the academic year 1977-1978, an evaluation team of college and university professionals will re-evaluate ESSC's teacher education programs.

A similar evaluation is performed once every 10 years in all accredited higher education institutions which prepare teachers for the education profession.

Dr. Sills said that the college is pleased with the report received from NCATE.

DELAWARE WATER GAP — State Police from Stroudsburg Saturday investigated a two-car crash just north of Delaware Water Gap at Interstate Rt. 60 exit ramp 53.

William Phifer, 52, of Easton, was taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where he was treated and released. He was a passenger in a car driven by David A. Young, 27, of Williamsport, N.J.

The other driver was George Pelych, 51, of Allentown. State Police at Stroudsburg said Pelych was traveling north on a township route and that he had stopped for a stop sign and then entered the intersection. The Young car was exiting from Rt. 60.

Young collided with the Pelych car and a trailer it was towing, police said.

Extension service continues education

STROUDSBURG — During the annual meeting of the Monroe County Extension Association it was reported that $7,287 was spent between October, 1967, and September, 1968, in support of educational assistance programs of the local Extension Service.

"This money was received from the Monroe County Commissioners. For every dollar received from the county, about five dollars is received from state and federal sources for staff salaries, training and publications," John Willrow, county agent, said.

Through the Extension Service, educational programs are developed toward efficiency in agricultural production, efficiency in marketing, distribution and utilization; conservation development and use of natural resources; family living, youth development, community and resource development and public affairs education.

In the annual activities report, educational assistance was given to 5,929 individuals; through 122 news articles; 144 radio broadcasts; 584 extension meetings and 332 4-H projects; 160 different pieces of educational material were prepared, distributed to 31,958 persons or agencies.

Marvin Vaughn, president Monroe County 4-H Development Association, in his 4-H report, said that $2,221 was spent last year supporting an active membership of 101 boys and 131 girls, noting that only four members were from bonafide farms and 158 from rural non-farm communities.

Kendall-Rattman survey

Area poll shows HHH much closer

STROUDSBURG — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is closing the gap but remains 13 percentage points behind front-runner Richard M. Nixon in Monroe County according to Saturday's presidential poll taken by a team of Stroudsburg High School ninth grade pollsters.

The Kendall-Rattman survey still shows Nixon a strong favorite with 47 per cent of the vote, or 140 people preferring Nixon out of 300 people surveyed. A total of 103, or 34 per cent favored Humphrey; George C. Wallace received 30 votes, or 10 per cent while 26 people, nine per cent remained undecided.

But, Saturday's poll revealed that since September 27 when the first Kendall-Rattman poll was taken on Main Street in Stroudsburg, Humphrey has gained 17 points from September's 17 percentage points to Saturday's 34 points.

Nixon lost three-quarters of one percent, from September's 47 and three-quarters per cent to November's 47 per cent. Wallace dropped one-and-one-half percentage points, from 11 and one-half to 10 percentage points.

In September's poll, 400 people were polled while November's poll took in the preference of 300 people.

Saturday's poll revealed several interesting statistics on voter preference. Males and females were almost even in their preference for Nixon: 71 males, 69 females for Nixon. But 23 males and only 8 females went for Wallace.

In age groups, Wallace drew more votes in the 21 to 39 category, 15, than in the 40-59 group, 12, or the 60 or over group, four.

Out of 15 unemployed people interviewed, 13 favored Humphrey while only two preferred Nixon.

Humphrey led in the "not registered" voter group with five people for Humphrey, four for Nixon and two for Wallace.

Humphrey also won out in the "blue collar category" with 35 people for Humphrey, 25 for Nixon, 17 for Wallace and six undecided.

In clerical and sales group, Nixon led with 18, Humphrey, eight; Wallace, two, and five undecided.

Nixon took first place in managerial and professional people interviewed and soared high above Humphrey and Wallace in government workers category with Nixon 12, Humphrey three and Wallace one.

Nixon grabbed top honors in the best qualified category with 36, Humphrey, 20 and Wallace, four. Nixon also bested the two other candidates in "like his policies and 'need for a change' groups. Humphrey was a strong winner with 25 people in "for the people and working class."

More people thought Humphrey had a "better record," was more "sincere, honest" and would better "end the war" than either Nixon or

Wallace. More people said they knew less about Agnew than either Muskie or LeMay. Muskie won hands down in the "good man, make a good Vice President" category. And Agnew led the field in the "don't like him, poor choice" category with

Agnew 19, Muskie, 2 and LeMay 3. Muskie received all the votes in the category, "like his policies and record." The two chief poll takers were Joseph Rattman, Delaware Avenue, Delaware Water Gap and Ronald Kendall, 739 Bryant

Street, Stroudsburg. Dorothy Hauser, Field Director of the Data Development Corporation, New York City, served as adult supervisor. Student interviewers were Sam Rice, 2159 Wallace Street, Stroudsburg; John Park, 703 Thomas Street, Stroudsburg and Bill Hatfield, 879 Scott Street, Stroudsburg. Of the 21,163 registered voters in Monroe County, there are 10,961 Democrats, 9,816 Republicans, 214 Independents, 157 non-partisans and 13 constitutionals. There are 10,708 women eligible to vote and 10,455 men.

Two party chairmen see victory

STROUDSBURG — Something's gotta give on election day.

Sunday night, the chairmen of both major political parties in Monroe County forecast victory for at least some of their candidates.

Dr. Evan C. Reese, GOP chairman, said he has already reported to Harrisburg that Richard M. Nixon will carry the county by a 2,000-vote majority.

Dr. Reese said he also expected every other Republican to carry the county.

Stuart Pipher, Democratic chairman, said the Hubert H. Humphrey-Nixon battle will be close in the county, but that incumbent U.S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney will carry the county.

Reese, on the other hand, predicted that Lehigh County Sheriff Paul Henderson will beat Rooney in the county. He said that Henderson could defeat Rooney in the 15th District if he receives a predicted majority in Lehigh County.

This, plus a victory in Monroe, Reese said could equate Rooney's expected win in Northampton County.

Donald Hunsicker, Monroe County chairman for third party candidate George C. Wallace, was unavailable for comment Sunday night but has maintained throughout the campaign that Wallace could carry the county.

Reese said the GOP hasn't been plagued by factionalism during the campaign and the cooperation among workers has been "terrific."

"During our last county committee meeting," the GOP chairman said, "67 of our 70 committee people were in attendance. This is the largest turnout since I have been county chairman."

Reese also noted that the presidential campaign has not been as expensive as previous campaigns. "We spent more money during the last state elections," he said.

Pipher predicted that Humphrey would win the Presidential election.

"Humphrey will go over the top in seven key states, Pipher said. "Pennsylvania by 150,000, New York, Ohio, Texas, Michigan, Massachusetts, Illinois and Florida and he'll pick up the smaller states in New England, the South and the Mid West."

"Humphrey will be about 200 votes short in carrying Monroe County but out for O'Brien," Pipher said. "He has a terrific chance and he's going to beat out Eschback in Monroe County. Pipher was referring to Republican J. Russell Eschback, Bushkill, who is opposing O'Brien for state representative in the 138th District."

Pipher predicted a 70 per cent turnout of the 21,163 registered voters in Monroe County. "Wallace will hurt Nixon more than Humphrey around here and in the South," Pipher said.

Attending a labor meeting Sunday night in East Stroudsburg at the CLU Club Pipher said that the 3,500 labor force in Monroe County is backing Humphrey.

Truck crashes, woman hurt

MILFORD — A Newton, N.J., man and his wife were taken to St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis, N.Y., Sunday at 12:45 a.m. after the truck they were in was involved in an accident on a legislative route about three miles south of Milford.

Taken to the hospital, where they were treated and released were Cary Lacken, 21, driver of the car and Mrs. Nancy Lacken, 24.

According to State Police from Milford, Lacken was traveling south on the legislative route when he failed to round a curve in the highway. His small truck crossed the highway and struck a tree.

Police estimate damage at $2,500.

Elks cerebral palsy drive nears $15,000 district goal

EAST STROUDSBURG — More than 200 members of the Northeast District, Pennsylvania Elks Assn. met Sunday in the Elks Lodge in East Stroudsburg.

Highlighting the meeting was a report from Clifford Fansen, district chairman of the Cerebral Palsy Home Service

Fund Raising Program. Fansen told the meeting that "as of today more than $8,500 has been collected toward the $15,000 district goal."

The program keeps 15 station wagons and nurses on the road to aid persons affected by Cerebral Palsy. These workers are in the district.

While the men were in session, wives of local Elks entertained the visiting women.

Following the business meeting a banquet was served and dancing followed the dinner.

Driver leaves crash scene

FERN RIDGE — State Police from Fern Ridge are looking for the driver of a 1967 Oldsmobile which was involved Friday night in a hit-run in front of Effort Diner on Rt. 115 in Effort.

Police said the car left the scene after colliding with a car driven by John Burns of Kunkletown, R.D. 1, and that the hit-run car should have extensive damage to front fender, left side as well as a broken left headlight.

Burns was not injured but his car was extensively damaged.

Dramatic club finds new home

EAST STROUDSBURG — The dramatic club at East Stroudsburg State College, Mask 'N Zany, has found a new home until the Fine Arts Learning Center is built within the next three years.

The theatre group has taken what was formerly a snack bar called the Timberlodge and converted it into what is now called "The Second A.C.T."

The Second A.C.T. factors combined theatre is now shared by Mask 'N Zany and the honorary theatre fraternity Alpha Psi Omega. The first A.C.T. was a building called the "Black Shack" which was levelled in the midst of ESSC's current building plans.

For two years, the dramatic organizations drifted from building to building on campus trying to find a place suitable for set construction, melodramas, and small scale productions. The Second A.C.T. has supplied them with a more permanent location.

Getting ready to hold their first melodrama in mid October, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" was no easy job according to Mask 'N Zany's president, Paul DeCoste. Thirteen people spent an entire weekend just cleaning their newly acquired home.

Following the cleaning, rewiring had to be done throughout the building to permit a stage lighting system. Along with this, a lighting booth and dressing rooms had to be constructed. Curtains were added to beautify the interior.

Fixing up the Second A.C.T. is not totally complete as the basement is being made into a workshop for the preparation of staging materials.

The student theatre at ESSC is a growing operation with Mask 'N Zany currently boasting fifty members. Combined with Alpha Psi Omega, the theatre fraternity, three major plays and one melodrama are produced each year. In addition, many small or limited productions are offered.

Driver hits parked car, two injured

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two persons were slightly injured Sunday at 6:15 p.m. in a two-car collision on Courtland Street.

Injured and taken to General Hospital of Monroe County were Linda M. Courtwright, 17, of 551 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, driver of the car, and Sarah Hennix, 27, of 77 Ridgeway St., East Stroudsburg, a passenger in the Courtwright car. Both were treated and released.

According to East Stroudsburg Police the Courtwright car was traveling south on N. Courtland Street and as it rounded the curve near East Stroudsburg Methodist Church the driver apparently lost control and crashed into the parked car of Theodore LaBadie, 18, of 87 W. Broad St., East Stroudsburg.

Total damage is estimated by police at $1,400.

Woman hurt in accident

STROUDSBURG — A 23-year-old East Stroudsburg, R.D. 2, woman Saturday was taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where she was treated for injuries received in a two-car crash on Rt. 191, near Pinebrook Camp. She was treated and released.

Bonnie L. Langan, according to Stroud Township Police, was traveling south and a car driven by LaMar Allen, 32, of St. Petersburg, Fla., was traveling north when they collided in the center of the highway.

Total damage is estimated by police at $1,300.

Catholic schools apply for share of state funds

STROUDSBURG — The Scranton Diocese, Roman Catholic Church, has filed notice of intent to participate in the state's $4.3 million aid to non-public schools.

Msr. Thomas J. Cawley, pastor of St. Matthews Church, said the Diocese has filed the intent for the non-public school aid participation for parochial schools within the Diocese.

This means that aid has been requested for both Notre Dame High School and Pocono Catholic Missions.

The State Department of Public Instruction recently extended its November 1 filing deadline to November 15.

The Seventh Day Adventist Church, which has a schooling program for its youths, has not filed for the state aid, however.

STROUDSBURG — Three area men will be a part of the 114-member State Police Cadet graduating class at ceremonies Wednesday at the police academy in Hershey.

Graduating will be Harry R. Van Vleet of 78 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg; Edward W. Rickard of Honesdale R. D. 2, and Frederick W. Stuckey of Newfoundland.

The cadets have completed three months of training which included 575 hours of classroom instruction, 126 hours of physical training and police skills, and 200 hours of other police training.

In the class are six college graduates and three men with associate degrees. Seventy of the men are married, five are former policemen and one was a civilian driver examiner.

Hunters warned of moth

STROUDSBURG — Hunters in the area are reminded that they could spread gypsy moths if they take home Christmas greenery, shrubs or logs infested with gypsy moth eggs.

The announcement was made through the Monroe County Extension Office by the Dept. of Agriculture which explained that the hunting season coincides with the season when gypsy moth eggs are present.

Federal and state quarantines require that articles which could spread gypsy moths be inspected and certified "pest free" before being shipped from infested areas.

The area under regulation for this pest includes the entire states of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, most of New Hampshire and Vermont and parts of Maine, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

The quarantine zone in Pennsylvania was recently extended to include all of Monroe, Wayne and Pike counties, most of Northampton, and parts of Carbon, Berks, Bucks and Schuylkill counties.

Federal inspectors at Moosic and state inspectors at Timbucknack will make the certifications at no cost to the individual. Additional information is available through these offices or the county extension offices.

Individual egg masses contain from 100 to 1,000 potential gypsy moths and if transported outside quarantined area, could begin a new infestation.

Gypsy moth caterpillars feed on leaves and are literally capable of stripping whole forests of their foliage.

Car veers, hits pole unconstitutional and unbiblical. Vincent J. McCoola, DPI coordinator for non-public school funds, said 1,275 non-public schools filed for aid as of November 1.

McCoola said the filing deadline was extended since there may be some eligible institutions which may have been neglected by the state or which may have inadvertently failed to file.

The state aid will help defray cost of teaching mathematics, modern foreign languages, science and physical education.

Warriors stun Delaware State with 'quickness,' 47 to 7

Dukett and Pitzer each score twice

By TED WISMER
Record Sports Editor

DOVER, Del. — Unbeaten East Stroudsburg State, perhaps the best unranked small college team in the nation, won one for the pollsters Saturday.

Charlie Reese's Warriors put together one of their finest overall efforts of the season here against strong Delaware State and walked off with a convincing 47-7 victory. The win was the seventh straight this year and 13th over the past two seasons.

The Hornets had previously played Morgan State and Indiana (Pa.), both ranked in the top 10 among small colleges, and gave both eleven a better game than they did the Warriors.

Reese remarked after the final gun had sounded "that they were a big strong football team but I feel we surprised them with our quickness, especially on defense."

The quick-hitting defensive unit of the Warriors was responsible for seven turnovers (three interceptions, three fumble recoveries and a blocked punt). The defense kept the Hornets in their own back-yard for the entire first half.

Meanwhile on offense, quarterback Billy Dukett had his best game in over a month as he ran for two touchdowns, and passed for a third. Dukett hit on 16 of 27 passes as he stuck with short passes instead of going for the bomb.

The entire first period was played on the Hornet side of the midfield stripe as the Warriors raced out to a 14-0 lead in the first 15 minutes.

On the fourth play of the game, the Warriors' Tom Mullineaux fell on a Steve Davis fumble at midfield. Dukett on first down hit Ralph Gish with a pass in the flat that carried to the 25.

Dukett missed his next three passes, all intended for Ed Csenesits (a strong cross-wind affected the ball). Then on fourth down, Dukett hit Bill Horvath (who caught seven during the game for 96 yards) on the 15, inches shy of a first.

A nine-yard punt again put the Warriors in good scoring position on the DS 24. A Dukett to Horvath pass picked up nine yards on second down. But John Pitzer, who later scored twice, failed to pick up a first and Danny Staats was short on a field goal attempt from the 23.

The next time the Warriors got the ball they finally hit paydirt. A Dukett to Grant pass that clocked for 12 yards opened the drive. Then with the ball at midfield, Dukett rolled to his right, and raced 31 yards to the 19.

Dukett again hit Horvath for a nine-yard gain before Pitzer banged for a first on the eight. A Dukett to Gish scoring pass was nullified by a motion penalty. But on the next play, Dukett again swept right end on a keeper and scored standing.

San Diego tops Miami

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Fullback Jim Allison and quarterback John Hadl hit Lance Alworth with second half touchdowns passes to break open a tight game and give the San Diego Chargers a 34-28 win over the Miami Dolphins Sunday.

San Diego trailed 21-17 in the third quarter when Allison threw his first professional pass, a 23-yard floater to Alworth on an option play. Hadl put the game out of reach 11 plays into the fourth quarter when he hit Alworth on a two-yarder to cap a 84 yard touchdown drive.

The Warriors conclude their regular season this Saturday at home with Bloomsburg.

up with 4:24 left in the period. Staats followed with the first of his five extra points.

A strong defensive rush by Bob Malhorn and Carl Wolfe dumped quarterback Norris Saunders back on the 3. Andrew Morrison's punt into the strong wind carried to only the 45 where Bob Dunan returned it nine yards. A face mask penalty on the play moved the ball to the 9.

Dukett missed two passes in the end zone before hitting Csenesits over the middle with 2:02 left in the period. Staats again split the uprights.

Late in the second period, Dukett hit Horvath with three passes for 19, 11 and 14 yards as the Warriors drove from the Hornets 47 to the 3. But on the next play Grant tumbled and the Hornets recovered.

ESSC dug in and forced the Hornets to punt from deep in the end zone. The Warriors partially blocked the punt from deep in the end zone. The Warriors partially blocked the punt and the ball hit on the 15 and rolled back to the 5 before it was downed.

Pitzer then got the call three straight times before getting into the end zone from a yard out with only 31 seconds left in the half. Staats' PAT was off to the left.

ESSC broke open the game during a two minute stretch of the third period as it scored two times while yielding Delaware State its only score.

The first score came at the 10:50 mark of the period when linebacker Gary Schoenberger broke up the middle and smothered Morrison's punt. Malhorn picked up the ball on the first bounce on the 25 and scored easily.

On Delaware State's first play following the kickoff, ESSC linebacker Tom Sykes made his second interception of the game and the Warriors were in business on the Hornet 45.

Two plays netted only a yard before Dukett hit Pitzer down the middle for a first on the 28. Dukett then hit Csenesits on the 20. Csenesits, who lost his helmet in the struggle, shook off a defender and ran another 12 yards to the 8.

Dukett rolled to his left and seeing the linebackers and secondary occupied, raced into the end zone for his second score with 8:39 left.

Delaware State then came to life and drove 74 yards in only eight plays with Saunders passing 17 yards to a diving George Askew for the score. In the drive, Davis had runs of 20 and 21 yards.

Late in the third period ESSC took over on its 35 following a punt. Jim Waite, who didn't see any action in the first half, quickly reeled off a 14-yard run to the 49.

Dunan ran for eight more before Dukett teamed with Waite for a first on the 28. Dunan and Waite then alternated carries as the Warriors drove for a first on the two. Two plays later Pitzer drove the final yard with 11:08 left in the game.

The final ESSC score came with 2:19 left in the game and was set up when Joe Hlatky recovered a fumble on the Delaware State 30. A vicious tackle by Charles Morrow on Keith Burke caused the fumble.

Three plays later reserve quarterback Gary Childs threw his sixth touchdown pass of the season as he hit Chuck Bierlein with a 25-yard throw.

The Warriors conclude their regular season this Saturday at home with Bloomsburg.

Panthers' Marish (four TDs) wrecks Cavaliers, 40-13

EAST STROUDSBURG — Wayne Marish put on a one-man show Saturday night in leading Hellertown to a 40-13 Lehigh Northampton League decision over East Stroudsburg in Memorial Stadium. The setback was the seventh straight for the Cavaliers.

All Marish, a 155 pounder, did was score four times on a 32-yard run from scrimmage, returned a kickoff 73 yards and was on the receiving end of scoring passes of 50 and 25 yards from quarterback Jim Kugler. Marish now has scored 15 touchdowns this season.

Marish, who gained 107 yard in nine carries and caught three passes for 63 yards, opened the scoring in the first period as he caught a 32-yard pass from Kugler.

Hellertown then broke open the game in the second period with a 27 point explosion as fumbles and interceptions hurt the Cavaliers.

An interception, the ninth against the Cavaliers in the last three games, set up the Panthers' first TD in the second period. The score came on Kugler's 50-yard bomb to Marish.

Eastburg fumbled the ensuing kickoff and on the next play

Kugler hit Jeff Nagy with a 32-yard touchdown pass to up Hellertown's lead to 19-0.

The Cavaliers then responded with a 80-yard drive of 15 plays with fullback Jim Frailley going over from the one for the score.

Colts blank Giants; 7-1 under Morrall

NEW YORK (UPI)—Giant castoff Earl Morrall, repeatedly coming up with a successful third-down play, flipped two second-period touchdown passes Sunday to lead the Baltimore Colts to an easy 26-0 triumph over puncheon New York.

Morrall, traded by the Giants to the Colts in August for Butch Wilson, had the crowd of 62,973 at Yankee Stadium chanting "goodbye Allie" as he tossed a 13-yard TD pass to Willie Richardson and a 15-yard strike to Jimmy Orr.

After Morrall's first TD pass, some fans in the end zone unfurled a huge banner reading, "Earl wasn't good enough for Allie" in reference to Giant coach Allie Sherman, who traded Morrall.

Morrall, who is playing in place of the injured Johnny Unitas and has directed the Colts to a 7-1 mark, was given a round of applause from the rain-drenched fans when he left the game for Jim Ward with the Colts leading 23-0 in the final period.

Meredith, Hayes spark Cowboys

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Quarterback Don Meredith pitched two touchdown passes to swift Bob Hayes Sunday to pace the Dallas Cowboys to a 17-3 victory over New Orleans before the largest professional football crowd of the season, 84,728 persons.

Ron Witby, who was released by New Orleans last year, kept the Saints deep in their own territory much of the game with a series of booming punts, including one for 84-yards. A National Football League record.

Meredith climaxed a 96-yard Dallas drive in the second period by connecting with play. He buried Saint hopes with a 131-yard scoring pass to Hayes with 11:46 left in the game.

Mike Clark gave the Cowboys a 10-0 halftime lead by kicking a 20-yard field goal after the Saints had stymied a 71-yard Cowboy drive on the New Orleans 13.

Charlie Durkee broke up a Dallas shutout by kicking a 38-yard, briefly narrowing the Dallas lead to 10-3.

The crowd, sitting alternately through sunshine and showers, was the largest in the two-year history of the Saints.

MILFORD — Montrose scored twice within a minute late in the fourth period Saturday to gain a 2-0 win over Delaware Valley and win the District 12 soccer championship.

The two teams were locked in a scoreless tie until the nine minute mark of the final period when Spence, on an assist from Lianberry, beat Deval goalie Ken Ogronick. A minute later Groover tallied the second Montrose goal.

The visitors had the better of the play and only some spectacular goal tending by the 6-5 Ogronick kept the score as close as it was.

Winless Eagles fold in 2nd half, 45-14

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Quarterback Jim Hart scored twice on quarterback sneaks and added a 40 yard touchdown pass to Roy Shivers Sunday, guiding the St. Louis Cardinals to a 45-14 victory over the winless Philadelphia Eagles for their eighth straight loss.

He tossed a 38-yard pass to Dave Williams which carried to the Eagles 16 on the first play after the kickoff and then Willis Crenshaw went 13 to the three on the next play. Smashes by Shivers and Crenshaw picked up three yards and Hart went over on third down for his second touchdown to put St. Louis ahead by 14.

Hart continued the Cardinal attack when he fired the 40-yard bomb to Shivers following an Eagles punt after the kickoff and Jamie Rivers kept the St. Louis momentum up when he intercepted a Snead pass and returned it 14 to the Eagles 22.

Roland went 19 to the three on the last play of the quarter and Shivers went over on the one on the second play of the added their last 10 points of the final quarter on a 47 yard field goal by Jim Bakken and a four-yard dive by Shivers.

Until the Cardinals put on their third period rush, the Eagles had been on contention. St. Louis marched 61 yards in 11 plays with Hart scoring on a sneakover for a 7-0 first period lead.

The Eagles tied it in the second period on a 71-yard march with passes by Snead covering 70 of the yards.

Jets halt Bills, 25-21 on Turner's 6 FGs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Turner's 35-yard field goal with 3:26 left Sunday rallied the New York Jets to a 25-21 victory over the Buffalo Bills, and the Jets' kicking specialist went on to an American Football League record-tying feat of six field goals in a game.

Turner, battering the club mark of four he set against Boston earlier this season, connected for the go-ahead points after Joe Namath set up the fifth field goal with a 25-yard pass to Pete Lammons. Turner's sixth field goal of the game — a 27-yarder in the last minute of play — equalled the AFL record set by Gino Cappelletti of Boston against Denver in 1964.

Buffalo had its last gasp from the Jets' 20-yard line with one second to play, but the New York forward wall swarmed over Kay Stephenson to cut off the threat.

Turner's field goals were kicked twice from the 32-yard line, twice from the 27, once from the 35 and another from the nine-yard line.

The Jets' only touchdown was a defensive gem when left cornerback Johnny Sample intercepted a Stephenson pass on the Buffalo 36 and ran it back for the score.

Stephenson gave Buffalo visions of a second successive upset over New York when he threw a 55-yard scoring pass to Haven Moses midway in the first period and connected on a 10-yard TD throw to Paul Costa midway in the fourth period.

And with 6:18 left, Hagood Clarke grabbed a bouncing punt on his 18-yard line and ran it back 82 yards to put Buffalo into a 21-19 lead.

After a series of punts, the Jets started their winning rally. Namath — who was intercepted five times, three for touchdowns, in Buffalo's upset of New York earlier this season — found Lammon in the flat to put the ball on the Buffalo 43. A pass interference moved the ball to the Buffalo 29 and Turner then kicked the game-winning field goal.

The victory kept New York's 2-12 game lead over second-place Houston and enhanced its chances for a first Eastern Division title.

The bruising Viking defense nearly rang up its first shutout in regular season play, never allowing the Redskins across mid-field until less than five minutes remained in the game.

With Minnesota leading 20-0, Charlie West ran a punt back 98 yards for a touchdown to tie an NFL record set in 1933 by Gil Le Febvre of Cincinnati.

Warriors whip Duke in 2nd half

DURHAM, N.C. — The East Stroudsburg State soccer team ended its brief Southern swing with a 4-1 victory over Duke Saturday afternoon.

ESSC opened the scoring in the opening period when Jim Huihan scored after a scramble in front of the goal. It remained that way until early in the third period when Duke tied the count on a goal by Enfield.

But minutes later the Warriors got two quick goals from Corky Camblum and Ed Ludwig to take a 3-1 lead after three periods.

The final ESSC goal came on a 40-yard shot by Mile Mason that went in on a fly as the Duke goalie misjudged the shot.

Steelers crush Falcons, 41-21; Jefferson grabs four TD passes

ATLANTA (UPI)—Pittsburgh flanker Roy Jefferson became the first National Football League player to catch four touchdown passes in a single game since 1963 Sunday when he led the Steelers to a 41-21 victory over the Atlanta Falcons.

Statistics

The Steelers, who got their first victory last week, were considered one-point underdogs against the Falcons. They built up a 34-0 lead in the third period, but the Falcons cut the gap considerably in the final 19 minutes with Atlanta quarterback Bob Berry throwing three touchdown passes.

The Steelers scored the first two times they got their hands on the ball, driving 71 yards for their first touchdown and 81 for the second with the Shiner-to-Jefferson passes climaxing both drives.

But it took the Steelers until 22 seconds before halftime to score again. That time Don Shyr ran across from three yards out to climax an 89-yard Steeler march.

The Steelers wasted little time padding their lead in the third period. Chuck Hinton recovered a Falcon fumble at the Atlanta 11-yard line, and three plays later Shiner connected with Jefferson with only 2:34 gone in the period. Less than five minutes later, after Paul Martha intercepted a Berry pass at the Falcon 25, the Steelers scored with Earl Gros plunging across from a yard out.

Bears top Packers on free field goal

GREEN BAY (UPI)—A 43 yard free kick field goal by Mac Percival with 26 seconds left carried the underdog Chicago Bears to a 13-10 victory over the defending pro football champion Green Bay Packers Sunday.

The game winning kick—Percival's second in as many weeks in the closing seconds—let the fantastic Gale Sayers set a rushing record, instead of tying, effort. Sayers gained 205 yards in 24 carries—a Bears' record—and set up the first two Chicago scores.

Statistics

GREEN BAY (UPI)—Statistics on the Chicago Bears Green Bay Packers football game:	Chi	GBay
first downs	18	12
rushing yardage	291	107
passing yardage	37	135
return yardage	0	57
passes	5:14.2	10:18.0
punts	5:39.2	5:42.7
fumbles lost	1	1
yards penalized	90	20

Percival's first field goal was his 10th in a row and carried him close to a National Football League record. However, he had one blocked in the final quarter to end the string.

His game winning boot was set up when Cecil Turner called for a fair catch on a short Donny Anderson punt. Under NFL rules, after a fair catch, the Bears then had their choice of how to put the ball in play. They elected a free kick—with no opposing linemen able to rush the kicker—and Percival put the ball squarely through the uprights. It was the second such kick in the long 99 game series between the two teams. Paul Hornung had done the same thing several years ago in Green Bay victory over Chicago.

The victory evened Chicago's record at 4-4 and left the Packers at two wins, four losses and one tie. Green Bay had been tied with Detroit for the Central Division NFL lead going into action Sunday.

Neither team was able to move the ball through most of the first half, with Green Bay missing on two field goal tries and Percival's 10 yarder with 16 seconds to play the only score.

After Sayers' opening return to the Green Bay 44, in the second half, Chicago moved downfield in 11 plays with rookie quarterback Virgil Carter rolling out and going two yards for the touchdown.

Green Bay came right back for its touchdown with Bart Starr hitting Carroll Dale on a 50-yard scoring strike.

On the first play of the final quarter the Packers evened things on Chuck Mercein's 19 yard field goal to set the stage for the last minute Percival heroics.

Sayers was almost unstoppable as he slashed his way for 118 yards in the first half and 87 yards in the second. He accounted for almost all of Chicago's 328 yards rushing and passing and lifted his league-leading rushing total to 824 yards.

Shortly before Percival's kick Green Bay blew a chance to score when Herb Adderley scooped a Sayers' fumble and ran 25 yards to the Bears' 14 where he was pulled down by Turner.

Three runs by Anderson resulted in a net loss of one yard and Mercein missed a 22 yard field goal.

The Packers earlier in the quarter had recovered another fumble in Chicago territory but gave the ball right back again.

an Anderson bobble. One week ago Percival had kicked a field goal with three seconds remaining to carry the Bears to victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a medication with the ability, in most cases — to promptly stop itching, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

Tests by doctors proved that in case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction of the inflamed hemorrhoids took place.

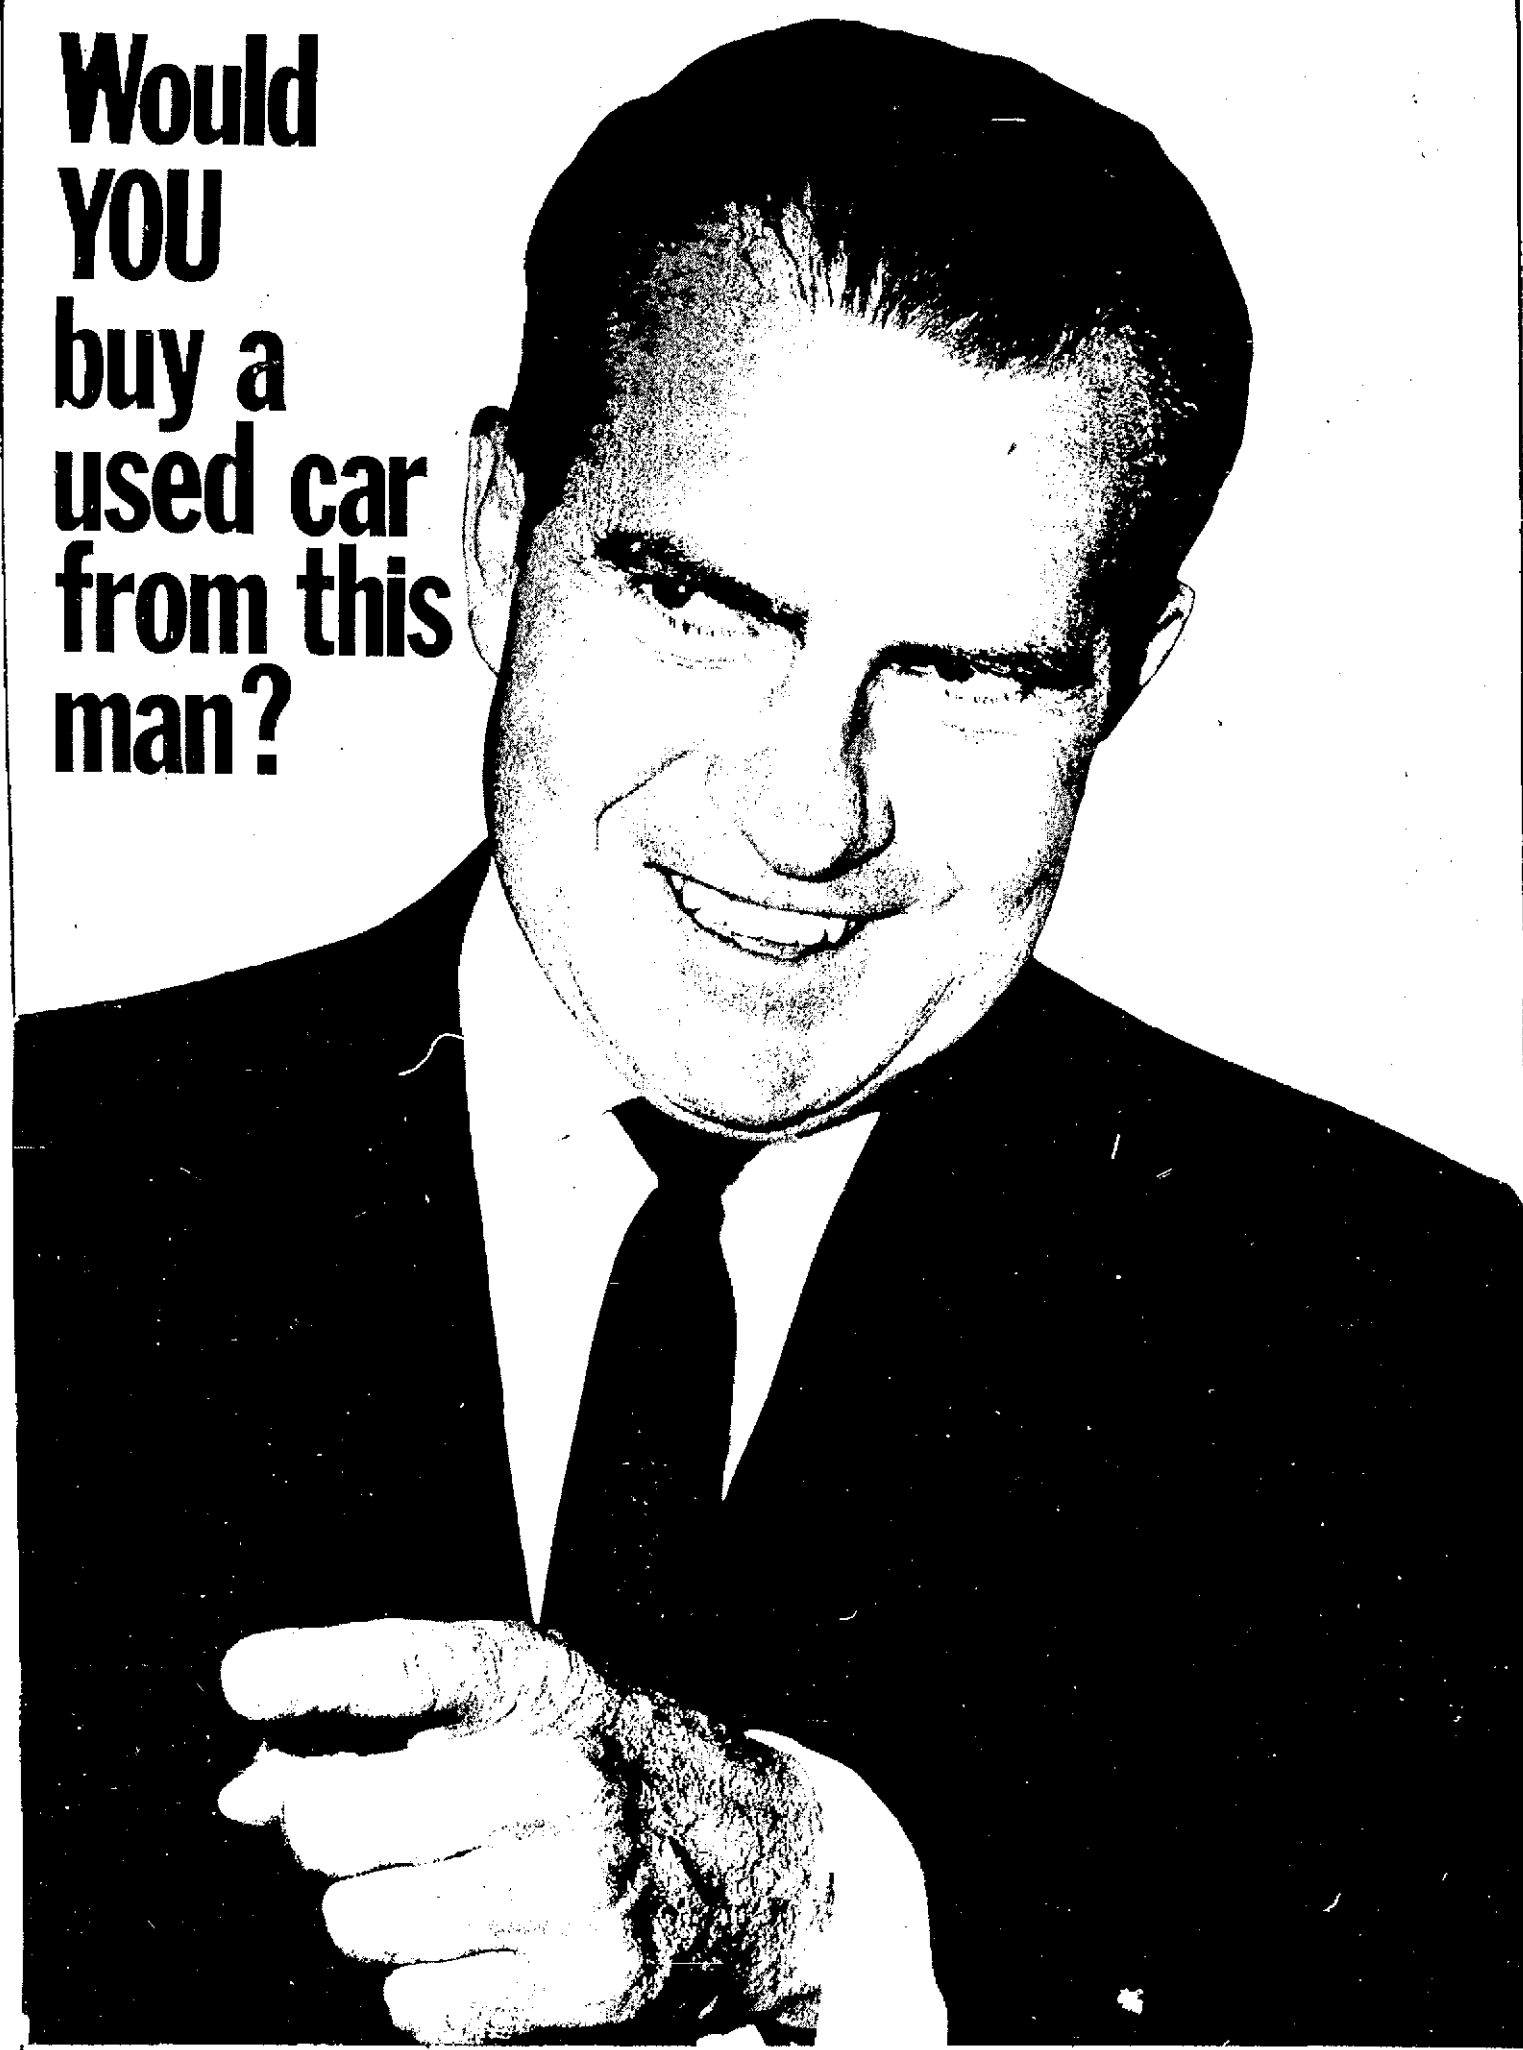

The secret is Preparation H®. There's no other formula like it! Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Staff of the Economic Development Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania receives a certificate formally designating EDCNP as a Local Development District Organization for Northeastern Pennsylvania. Making the presentation is Secretary of Commerce, Clifford L. Jones, left; to Donald D. Moyer, EDCNP Executive Director; Raymond Condo, Assistant Executive Director; and Leonard W. Ziolkowski, EDCNP Appalachian Program Coordinator.

Economic development Council of area receives certification

WILKES-BARRE — The Economic Development Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania has been formally certified as the Local Development District Organization for Northeastern Pennsylvania under the Appalachian Regional Development Act.

Acting for Governor Raymond P. Shafer, Pennsylvania member of the Appalachian Regional Commission, Secretary of Commerce, Clifford L. Jones, recently presented a plaque to Donald D. Moyer, EDCNP Executive Director, in Harrisburg. Also present at the ceremonies was former Scranton Mayor William T. Schmidt, Director, Bureau of State and Federal Economic Aid.

The Economic Development Council, one of seven development organizations throughout the Commonwealth, serves Carbon, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Monroe, Pike, Schuylkill, and Wayne Counties.

This official certification recognizes EDCNP as a coordinating agency to help private and public groups secure supplemental Appalachian program funding in most Federal and State grant programs. Such supplemental funds are available to many basic grant-in-aid programs such as the Hill-Burton programs for hospitals, mental health facilities and nursing homes; vocational-technical schools, facilities under the "Higher Education Facilities Act"; low and moderate income housing; and airport development.

The Council is also the Northeast Pennsylvania coordinator for the State Planning Board, gathering regional data and identifying projects and programs eligible for public assistance for the annual "State Plan for Public Investment in Appalachian Pennsylvania."

EDCNP supplements local efforts to improve their communities, helping groups prepare applications, and providing data and economic justifications for programs.

The Council, a non-profit research and service organization, has a Board of Directors comprised of representatives of the seven counties it serves. It assists public and private groups in advancing the regional economy, and in aiding industrial and recreation-tourism development.

John S. Davidson is Council President. Local Board members include: Stuart P. Pipher (EDCNP Secretary), Ralph E. Reppert (Executive Committee), Robert C. Entwistle (Board Member), Jesse D. Pierson (Board Member), William J. Altier (Board Member), Jesse H. Lynch (Board Member), and Elwood Hintze (Board Member).

Transfer grads earn ESSC bid

EAST STROUDSBURG — Graduates of the college transfer curriculum of the Pennsylvania's Community College will be accepted by East Stroudsburg State College according to a resolution recently proposed and passed by the Academic Council of the college.

Dr. Frank D. Sills, president of ESSC, said that the resolution also includes students from all accredited two-year institutions which offer a recognized college transfer curriculum.

The acceptance of transfer students from two-year institutions will be based on standards as established through cooperative efforts of ESSC and the sending institutions.

'Royal' life on the open road

(Editor's note: This is the fifth in a series of reports by James H. Ottaway Sr., chairman of the board of Ottaway Newspaper-Radio, Inc. The informal articles will cover a month's visit to Madeira and Portugal.)

By James H. Ottaway Sr.

BUSSACO, PORTUGAL — Practicing living like a king and a queen, we slept until 9 o'clock. It was Wednesday, Oct. 16, the second day of our stay in Portugal.

After the traditional continental breakfast of rolls, jam, and coffee (with orange juice at 15 escudos extra), we managed to dress, to repack, and walk the 89 steps down to our car.

Today we are travelling from Bussaco to Tomar, via Coimbra, about an 80-mile trip. But before leaving we drove to the very mountain top where, at the foot of an enormous cross, we viewed the peaceful valley 1,500 feet below.

It was chilly until we arrived back in Coimbra where the sun had brought back 80-degree weather that stayed with us all month.

In an old and modern city of 80,000, we rested in the solitude of a botanical garden in the center of town. We viewed trees imported from Asia and Australia. We gazed at the heart of the city and the hills from a peak in Lookout Park.

We lunched at the Pinto D'ouro (golden chicken), a typical Portuguese restaurant, where the driver George had to order our luncheon.

The miniature Portuguese village nearby was fascinating. It included everything from a castle, a pagoda, a farm, and a school to an airplane and a huge outdoor wall map that had multi-colored ropes showing where Portuguese sailors covered the world centuries ago.

Finally, we tore ourselves away from the miniature village and headed for Tomar, 60 miles due south.

Having stayed in a modern city hotel and the contrasting Bussaco Palace, we eagerly awaited the Hotel dos Templarios and the village of Tomar itself.

We were not disappointed. As we drove up to the hotel in late afternoon, we were pleased to find it was new, but, most important, was beautifully situated in front of the village park.

Alongside ran a stream with a huge water wheel, and an outdoor swimming pool that was most inviting.

A boy almost as big as our bags escorted us to our rooms, facing the park with ample balconies. What a view! High on the hill above the village was the palace.

Later in the evening, sitting on our balcony, we saw the castle beautifully illuminated. So we drove to the castle and viewed the village and the countryside, dressed in its night-time twinkling lights.

Returning to the hotel, we looked longingly at the pool; read our mail from home which awaited us upon arrival; and crawled into our beds with visions of knights and their ladies swimming in our heads.

Thursday, Oct. 17: Each night we set a target hour of 10 a.m. for departure. We seldom made it and cared less.

So this morning we decided to see the local cathedral and also to visit the palace in daytime.

Visit to the palace was fascinating. We even saw cells where monks are still living.

We asked to look in, but the monks will be happy to know that while they were in classes the palace guide did not allow visiting Americans to see, whether they had made their beds.

Going to the bank was an interesting experience. You can change dollars into escudos at an established rate that holds in any part of Portugal.

First, you go to the counter, and the courteous clerk fills out a long form with passport number, dollars to be exchanged, name and home address.

In this bank the clerk then gave us a copy of the form and a coin looking like a half dollar with a hole in the center but with a number!

Next was the cashier's window where the cashier took the coin, placed it on a spindle (reason for the hole), and with slip at hand counted off 2,862.50 escudos for 100 American dollars.

No coin with hole, no money! It's as simple as that. But before we left, we examined a Burroughs bookkeeping machine that looked as modern as any we have seen in United States banks.

Back to our car. We are heading south again, this time 116 miles from Tomar to Evora.

And the entire 116 miles was a vast valley of olive groves, cork trees and even rice paddies!

At one point we stopped to have our cork tree lesson from driver George.

The tree is 'scalped' about two inches on the lower limbs, and the balance of the tree — which looks much like a sprawling apple — is left intact.

Several years later when the red-brownish bark regrows to its normal grey the upper bark of the tree is scalped. And more cork again.

Across the road a Portuguese woman talked to her husband and we suspected she was asking him what those wild Americans were doing. Driver George explained, and on we drove to Evora.

We lunched at Caruche, a small village, at the Coruja restaurant. Delicious soup, fish and melon revived our spirits, and we marched on to Evora, arriving about 5 o'clock.

Yosemite — 'graduate school of rock climbing'

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — There are two starkly contrasting worlds in Yosemite Valley, that seven-mile long trough of rock sculptured into the western flank of the Sierra Nevada.

One is the horizontal realm of the valley-bound tourist, content to stroll the crowded, dusty trails as he gazes at the granite cliffs and the waterfalls spewing from their crests.

The other is the exclusive, vertical world of the Yosemite rock climbers. Yosemite has become the rock climbing center of America, where men have pushed scaling standards to the threshold of the improbable, if not the impossible.

"This is the graduate school of rock climbing," one valley veteran commented recently as he and others chatted over a smoking kerosene lamp in Camp 4, home of the valley regulars.

The valley is the core of 758,659-acre Yosemite National Park, some 150 air miles southeast of San Francisco.

It is ringed by the country's greatest collection of rock faces, domes and towers, gouged out by ancient glaciers.

The smoothness and sound quality of the rock and its soaring verticality make it the supreme challenge for climbers.

In 1965 the California Geological Survey reported that Half Dome was "perfectly inaccessible" and that no man was ever likely to set foot upon its crest.

CERVICAL SPASM

Cervical Spasm is a very painful condition of the neck in which there is a spasm of the muscles. This spasm makes movement of the neck very difficult, if not impossible. The pain makes it unpleasant. Generally the neck cannot be moved without moving the body.

The position of the head in Cervical Spasm will vary, depending upon which muscles are in spasm.

It is known that the action of muscles is controlled by nerves. A muscle contracts when nerve impulses pass into the muscle, and the greater the number of impulses passing into the muscle in quick succession, the greater the degree of contraction of that muscle. Pressure on the nerves will cause a greater muscle contraction. This pressure arises from the spinal column. Chiropractic has had excellent response in Cervical Spasm which makes it advisable to consult a Chiropractor when suffering from this affliction.

(One of a series of articles in the public interest to explain and illustrate the scientific practice of Chiropractic, written by Dr. Thomas F. Snyder, D. C., Brodheadsville, Pa. Phone: 592-4787.)

Israel returns to 'normal'

JERUSALEM (AP) - Israel is returning to normal — which means a no-holds-barred political struggle for power in next November's elections.

It is a contest which has been waged without a break since the Jewish state was founded 20 years ago. Political differences and personal rivalries are shelved only when Israel and the Arabs square off against each other.

Israel is facing decisions which may decide irrevocably the shape of things to come in the Middle East. The average Israeli would like to believe these decisions will be affected by petty political differences, but he fears the present struggle could oust ministers now holding key positions, and replace them with men of lesser ability.

The Israelis' favorite is the tough-talking defense minister Gen. Moshe Dayan. Public opinion polls show he is the people's choice to succeed Prime Minister Levi Eshkol eventually.

So far the 73-year-old premier has blocked Dayan at almost every turn in his bid to win the nomination for the top party spot.

Eshkol appointed Yigal Allon, also a former general and war hero and close friend, as deputy premier. Seemingly, Allon is being groomed as Eshkol's successor, although the prime minister shows every sign of running again.

Similarly, a Dayan move to permit the ruling United Labor Party congress to choose its election candidates by secret ballot was defeated by Eshkol's supporters. Dayan had hoped to win added support this way.

Dayan then resigned from the party's leadership command.

The old guard of the Labor party calls Dayan an upstart, an adventurer and an opportunist. But many of the younger generation would like to see the old-timers replaced, and Dayan is their man.

Whatever the outcome of political maneuvers, only the most optimistic Israeli expects it to boost hopes of peace with the Arabs.

Two council members at convention

SWIFTWATER — Representative of the Student Council of the Pocono Mountain Junior-Senior High School, Edward Horn, Nancy Post and Advisor June Price Young, attended the 32nd Annual Pennsylvania Association of Student Councils Convention last week at Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa. 16802.

The Convention Theme was "The Right To Speak — The Responsibility To Act".

The Keynote Speakers were Marilyn Van Derburg, former Miss America, and Phi Beta Kappa from University of Colorado. She currently represents the United Airlines as a Youth Speaker and speaks to 75,000 teenagers a year.

Her message was "Set a goal, set a deadline, then really work hard."

Gerald M. Van Pool, Director of National Association of Student Councils, spoke on "Dream Big — Then Go To Work." Twenty different student discussion groups were scheduled on topics of importance to Student Councils.

Cub Pack 85 holds party

TANNERSVILLE — Twenty-eight prizes were awarded at the recent Halloween Party meeting of Cub Pack 85 of Tannersville.

Winners were Cindy Sebring, Wayne Segar, Tom Adams, Steven Gravatt, Leslie Carroll, Kurt Schroeder, Timmy Carroll, Carlene Kresge, Diane Kresge, Valerie Carroll, Wendy Agins, Vickie Clurso, Tim Slatter, Tricia Riley, Charles Honorski, Mac Goeck, Terry Martz, Harris Rosenberg, Lynn Bunting, Craig Spragle, George Newhart, Mary Ann Miller, Dorothy Brong, Paul Werkheiser, Eileen Agins, Jerome Phillips, June Honorski, and Mrs. Lidin Sebring.

The party was for the cubs and their families. Judging the costumes were John Riley, Frank Goeck, and Donald Schroeder.

Your tax problems

"Your Tax Problems" is published as a public service and is prepared by the Philadelphia District Office of the Internal Revenue Service. Send queries to the Internal Revenue Service Public Information Officer, P. O. Box 12805, Philadelphia, Pa. 19108. For personal replies give name and address.

Q. It has recently been determined that I claimed a deduction on my 1966 tax return which is not allowable. As a result I owe additional tax for 1966 instead of having a credit, which I requested be applied to my 1967 tax. May I now file amended returns for each of the two years to bring them both to the proper value?

A. When the overpayment shown on a return is credited to another year's tax, the return is treated as though a refund check had been issued. If the adjustment to your 1966 return is the result of an examination of the return by the Internal Revenue Service, you will be charged with the amount credited to your 1967 tax in the report of additional tax prepared by the examining officer. If you found the error yourself, you should file an amended return for the year 1966, charging yourself with the amount credited in determining the additional tax due. In either event, it will not be necessary to file an amended return for the year 1967.

Q. I just started driving a cab. Is it true I have to pay tax on my tips every month?

A. When tips amount to $20 or more a month, they are subject to withholding tax like other income from salaries and wages. Report them to your employer and he will make the necessary adjustment in your paycheck.

Q. In various tax and investment columns, I have often read that tax on a long term capital gain cannot exceed 25 per cent. I fail to find anything regarding this in the instructions for Form 1040. I would appreciate it if you would furnish me information regarding this and how it is handled.

A. The instructions for the computation of the alternative tax can be found on page two of Schedule D. This schedule is used to show the gains and losses from sales or exchanges of property.

Q. Just what can I deduct from my income tax for home improvements? This year I spent $1,200 for sewers and water, $1,500 for aluminum siding and $150 for 100 amp wiring.

A. None of the expenses you listed would be deductible on your income tax return. They are considered to be capital improvements and are added to the cost of your home.

Q. My wife inherited $3,300 this year from her mother's will. She also received $365 as executrix of the will. My son received $1,600 as his share. My question is do I declare the above amounts as income on my 1968 income tax return?

A. The amounts of $3,300 received by your wife and $1,600 received by your son are specific bequests or inheritances and are not taxable. Therefore, they are not required to be reported on an income tax return. However, the amount of $365 received by your wife as executrix is considered compensation and this must be shown on either her income tax return, or, if a joint return is filed, on the joint tax return. This should be shown on page two as miscellaneous income.

Your Horoscope By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Forget the restrictions of the past. Without anxiety, go about everyday tasks; carefully weed out time-wasters and eliminate non-essentials from your program. Forward!

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Neither renege on promises nor attempt too much. Both tendencies are likely. Accept only what better sense recognizes will suit the day and worthwhile purpose. Be selective, not glib.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Have confidence in your talents and back them with your fine know-how. You can benefit by past procedures as well as new methods.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Favorable lunar influences give you many advantages, but you must promote your own interests to keep the ball rolling of course.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your Sun's aspect enlivens the whole scheme of things. But it still requires added effort and ambition on your part. Decide early the contribution you can make; keep a steady hand on the wheel.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Strong planetary influences encourage you to get a head start and propel your talents toward an eager market. Use proper tools, tactics, technique.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Admonitions: Do not exaggerate, push any deal or matter that could do better with more examination and possibly a cooling-off period. Trust your intuition, but get the facts, too.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Mars, in powerful aspect, stimulates the best you can summon, but don't strain.

That one extra try, that special genial word may turn a big tide for you.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Here's a day for a brighter pace. And a fervent, earnest YOU, devoted to THIS day's duties, large or small, can strengthen faith in all those whom you encounter.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — As you wind your way through old or new, complicated or simple tasks, remember that "all things are difficult before they are easy." Struggle is challenging. Honor lights the load.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Hold off expanding activities until you make sure that you are within wise limits and can carry the "extras" without deserting primary interests. Certain problems lessening.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Inspiring influences encourage all important matters. Look carefully for the fine points, but explore new vistas, and a favorite sideline if you have time.

YOU BORN TODAY: Here is activity, whole-heartedness, keen intuition, impartiality — on the high scale. The native of Scorpio is innately kind, generous and endowed with a keen sense of justice. You will not tolerate inhumanity and imbalance where you can do something about it. You see far ahead and find many opportunities for doing things worthwhile. You are able to copy, or create, and will do whichever is most needed at the moment, so you can advance more steadily than many. Birthdate of: Guido Reni, Italian painter; Walter Cronkite, TV newscaster; Art Carney, actor.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 8 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 8, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 11-4
